Binghamton Fire Dead Now 58

RECOVER 21 BODIES IN RUINS

BINGHAMTON, July 23.—With the ruins of the building of the Binghamton Clothing Company, destroyed yesterday afternoon by fire, with great loss of life, sufficiently cooled by streams of water which were played on them all during the night, rescuers today began digging at the tons of timber, brick and mortar in an effort to reach the bodies still known to be buried in the debris.

Up to noon today twenty-one bodies had been recovered. The probable death list will reach fifty-eight. Of the 141 persons in the building at the time the fire broke out only thirty-eight escaped uninjured. Thirty-seven are still missing and unaccounted for. Failure to promptly heed the alarm of fire, believing it was only a fire drill, undoubtedly caused the great loss of life.

When the girls and women employed in the factory realized that the building was enveloped with flames the main avenue of escape was cut off. Instantly the other exits were closed to a panic stricken girls eager to rush from the burning building.

Only a few of them, however, reached the street. Survivors tell of seeing their fellow workers fall unconscious from fright before the flames and smoke swept over them.

Battled for Life.

A few battled for life to the last. Many reached the windows, but the firemen and others bent on rescuing inmates were powerless to aid them owing to the rapidity with which the flames licked up the inflammable mill material. Only eighteen minutes elapsed from the time the fire broke out until the walls fell and the building was in ruins.

Criminal prosecutions may result from the investigation into the origin of the fire. The State labor department is making an independent probe to see if the factory laws were violated. Only six of the dead have been identified.

Rigid investigation of the fire will be made by Coroner Seymour and District Attorney Meagher. They will investigate the charges made that gasoline was

'Peachy' Goes Right Into Judge's Lobby

Smile from Justice Rugg Is Her Only Rebuke.

"Peachy" Hatch was in contempt of court again today—Chief Justice Rugg's session of the Supreme Judicial Court, too.

"Peachy," the seven-year-old daughter of Major and Mrs. Charles Hatch, is the niece of Mrs. Mary E. H. Emery, one of the principals in the $50,000 Emery will contest. Mrs. Hatch is attending the hearings before Chief Justice Rugg and brings with her the charming little girl called "Peachy," who flits about the courtroom like a bright butterfly.

She trotted into the Chief Justice's private lobby, where nobody enters without the Judge's permission. And the Chief Justice merely smiled at the little one.

4 Firemen Overcome at Fire in Roxbury

Four firemen were overcome by smoke and several others cut by falling glass at a fire today in the two-and-one-half story wooden dwelling house, No. 16 Intervale street, Roxbury, owned and occupied by William Levy, a dry goods merchant. The damage was estimated at $3,500.

Hoseman James Lettman of Engine Company No. 18 was overcome by heat and smoke, and was removed in District Chief Ryder's automobile to the City Hospital. Captain Jordan of the same company was assisted from the house and was revived in a nearby doorway. Hoseman Joseph Allen of Engine Company No. 24, and Ladderman Edward Fottler of Ladder Company No. 23 were cut by falling glass.

The Levy family are spending the Summer at Revere. Yesterday Mr. Levy left on an automobile trip to New York, shortly before noon today neighbors on Otisfield street, in the rear, saw smoke issuing from windows on the second floor. When the apparatus arrived flames were shooting from the roof. Nearby dwellings were threatened.

SHIP U. S. ARMS TO MEXICO

Removal of Ban Against Ammunition for Rebels Is Expected at Washington.

WILSON CONSULTS LEADERS

WASHINGTON, July 23. President Wilson today summoned Representative Flood, chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, and Senator Bacon, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, to the White House to confer on conditions in Mexico.

The extreme delicacy of the present situation enforced a policy of strict secrecy at the White House, but it was asserted that the purpose of today's conference was to discuss the advisability of removing the ban from shipments of arms and ammunition to the Constitutionalists in northern Mexico.

Mexico Welcomes Jap.

Thousands of students bearing Japanese flags greeted the new Japanese minister, Minochiro Adachi, on his arrival here in Mexico City today, in spite of the suggestion of the Japanese legation that a demonstration be prohibited. With the exception of excited remarks by some of the orators there were no anti-American utterances.

The minister characterized Japan and Mexico as brother nations.

The Fall resolution, guaranteeing constitutional rights to American citizens abroad and protection to their property, went over without debate when the Senate met today. This leaves the resolutions tabled and ready for consideration at any time the author may see it to again call it up.

Full agreed with members of the Senate that enough publicity had been given the Mexican situation for the present.

Vigorous Action Expected.

The dispatch of a gunboat to Mexican waters, in addition to the four battleships already there, the presence of Secretary of War Garrison and General Leonard Wood on the Texas border, and the summoning of Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson to Washington are taken to indicate in official circles here that the Mex can situation will no longer be allowed to drift by President Wilson.

Reports from Chihuahua and Coahuila indicate the centralization of federal forces in those provinces and the probable opening of railroad communication from the capital to the border within a week.

General Zapata, the constitutionalist leader, in the South, is now operating in Zacatecas and Morelos.

The State Department has been requested to demand the release of Thomas Hind, assistant general superintendent of the Southern Pacific Railroad of Mexico, who, according to a code message, is being held for ransom by Mexican federals at Guaymas. Railroad officials have asked that instructions be given Rear Admiral Bowles of the Pacific fleet to secure Hind's release.

Miles a Prisoner in Bulgar Capital

Retired Army Head Reported in Centre of Serbs' Siege.

Lieutenant-General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., retired, of Westminster, who left his Bay State home for Sofia, Bulgaria, a few days ago, is reported to have the war editor of Otchedni street, in the rear, saw smoke issuing from windows on the second floor. When the apparatus arrived flames were shooting from the roof. Nearby dwellings were threatened.

One Dead, Four Hurt in Taunton Tragedy

Auto Goes Over Embankment in Fog and Upsets.

TAUNTON, July 23.—One man was killed and four hurt in an automobile accident in Taunton early today.

The dead man is Renie P. Waitt, twenty years old, of No. 14 High street. The injured are:

WALTER SHUMWAY, No. 6 Bow street, at the Morton Hospital with a dislocated leg and cuts about the head.

WALTER HEWITT, No. 9 Porter street, bruises.

DR. GEORGE NOONAN, Mansfield, bruises.

WILFRED COTE, chauffeur, abrasions.

The party left Taunton last night and went to Providence for the scrolls. They left Providence about midnight, and reached Taunton early today.

On Tremont street, as they were rounding a sharp curve, Cote ran into a bank of fog, and for a minute lost sight of the road.

The machine shot up on the sidewalk and grazed a post, then swerved as Cote tried to turn it back to the road. It crossed the road again, out of control, and dashed down an embankment and turned turtle.

Waitt was pinned under the machine, and the others were thrown out.

Waitt was hurried to the Morton Hospital in the police ambulance. He died some time later.

Doherty Freed of Blame for Wreck

New Haven Road Also Exonerated by the Coroner.

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., July 23.—Coroner John J. Phelan filed his report on the wreck on the New Haven road at Stamford, June 12, with the State's attorney here today exonerating both Engineer Doherty and the New Haven road and its servants or agents from any criminal negligence on account of the disaster, which cost six lives and the injury of a score or more persons.

The Coroner says that the only evidence that the air brake equipment was defective was the testimony of Doherty, which was disputed by enough evidence reasonably to convince that such equipment was in good ordinary condition, except that greater care was necessary to keep it working quicker than on many other engines, and with this exception the engine was being and could be operated satisfactorily.

Germans Sarcastic Over Diplomacy

BERLIN, July 23.—The proposed treaty between the United States and Nicaragua evokes a few sarcastic comments in the German press on President Wilson's return to the system of "dollar diplomacy." Government circles, however, express themselves as satisfied that if the proposed protectorate over Nicaragua should be established it will diminish the chances of internal disturbances.

Find Man's Clothing on East Boston Pier

A bundle consisting of a man's black sack coat, dark trousers, black suspenders, brown stitched soft hat, black soft shirt, blue four-in-hand tie, black shoes and light colored sox was found on the dock off No. 410 Border street, East Boston, today. Five keys, a black handled knife and thirty cents in change were found in the pockets of the coat. A theory is that the owner may have gone in swimming, was seized with a cramp and drowned.

Mrs. McBride to Go on Socialist Stump

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Mrs. Nina Lane McBride, daughter of U. S. Senator Lane of Oregon, is in Washington visiting her father. She is preparing a widespread Socialist campaign. Next month she will commence a tour of the Eastern states, speaking from street corners and in workingmen's halls on the Socialist propaganda. Mrs. McBride met her husband, who also is a Socialist worker, at a rally of the party in Portland, Ore.

"LINED UP LABOR FOR DRAPER"

—Mulhall.

Massachusetts Politics Dealt With in Letters Read Before Senate Lobby Committee.

SENATORS REFERRED TO

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Colonel M. M. Mulhall, following a visit to Boston in 1909, wrote The National Manufacturers' Association officials that he had lined up the labor leaders to work for the re-election of Governor Draper.

This was brought out in the reading of Mulhall's letters before the Senate lobby investigating committee today.

Mulhall wrote on November 6, 1909, that "Senator Crane and the leaders of the Republican party were taking their orders from the labor unions," and that "Roosevelt and Taft are largely influenced by the Eastern Senators and Congressional delegation from Massachusetts."

A. E. Cox of East Boston, attempted to correct this impression by writing Mulhall.

"You misunderstood me as to Senators Lodge and Crane. Neither of them is owned or controlled by labor. They can always be depended upon to stand against all revolutionary legislation."

Mulhall wrote that "Vice-President Sherman wanted us to do him some favors" in Rhode Island, but Mulhall today told the committee he could not remember what the "favors" were.

Mulhall criticized Frank H. Hitchcock and Representative Herbert Parsons for "toadying" to the labor vote, and said politicians were generally sore because of a pro-labor speech made by President Taft in Chicago.

On October 23, John Kirby, Jr., characterized President Taft's labor speech as evidence of a "battledore and shuttlecock policy." He intimated that the National Association would undertake reprisal.

The correspondence showed that on September 18 James H. Watson of Indiana wrote to Mulhall that President Taft had turned over to Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh, the entire question of tariff board personnel.

"If MacVeagh were a Republican we might be able to reach him," wrote Watson, "but he is a mugwump and I am not hopeful of final success, for I never met I never on earth knew what to do with a mugwump, inasmuch as I have no right to kill him."

Daniels Blameless for Seattle Riots

SEATTLE, Wash., July 23.—A joint telegram absolving Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels from responsibility for the riots here Friday night, when a mob led by sailors sacked the headquarters of the Socialists and Industrial Workers of the World, has been sent to President Wilson by the president of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, the Arctic Club and the Rainier Club.

Leaning Tower of Pisa Is Dangerous

PISA, Italy, July 23.—Arrangements have been made to strengthen the famous Leaning Tower of Pisa, which is inclining more out of the perpendicular every year and the condition of which is becoming dangerous.

Goetting to Run for Governorship

Councillor August H. Goetting of Springfield will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. Nomination papers for him will be taken out at once and he will make a formal declaration of his candidacy during the week.

HERE is the girl chosen of all the Elevated carmen's organization members to represent them at the union convention. She is Miss May Ferguson of the South Terminal "L" station.

"L" employes—members of the carmen's union—are nothing if not gallant. They're just picked a young woman for an honor for which they could have had any one of 5,000 men—more or less. But the men just solid they realized that the young woman they had in mind could held down the job, so they went right ahead and elected her by casting their "votes for woman."

The young woman is Miss May Ferguson. If you're one of the many, many thousands who use the South Terminal Elevated station, you know her. She's the young woman who sits at the right hand ticket office as you enter and who passes you out a ticket in return for your nickel.

Miss Ferguson has been elected by the union as its delegate to the international convention of Street Railway Employes at Salt Lake City in September. Not only was Miss Ferguson the only member of her sex to receive a vote for this honor, but she will be the only woman delegate to the convention.

Will Probe Advance in Price of Coal

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—District Attorney Samuel P. Rotan said today that he would investigate the raising of the price of anthracite by retail dealers in Philadelphia. A new State law levies a tax of 2½ per cent. on the value of each ton of anthracite mined, or approximately 5 cents a ton. The coal operators immediately raised the price of coal at the mines to cover the tax.

OFFERED POST BY MORGAN

State Street Hears Northern Pacific President Will Head New Haven.

VERY ABLE RAILROAD MAN

Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific Railroad, and with the reputation of being the ablest railroad man in the United States, will come to New England and succeed Charles S. Mellen at the head of the New York, New Haven & Hartford.

The committee of six, empowered to choose Mellen's successor, met today in New York. They gave out no formal announcement, but Wall street and State street learned that Elliott had been chosen.

Elliott has been in consultation with J. P. Morgan in New York. Morgan dictates the New Haven's policy. Wall street believes Elliott was formally offered the presidency at this conference.

The question remains, "Will he accept?" He refused an offer of the presidency of the Missouri Pacific a short time ago, but the New Haven presidency is a different thing.

Offers Big Opportunity.

The New Haven road today offers the greatest opportunity in the country's history for constructive railroad work. It is among the five largest roads in the country, in mileage and earnings, and the system is capable of infinite development, if the right man takes command.

New England would probably welcome Elliott's coming. He has a splendid reputation as "a hog for hard work," and "a man who talks more in a day than Mellen does in a month," at the same time.

Elliott was born in 1860 in New York, and after a scientific education went to work in 1880 as a redman for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy.

In 1887 came his first big promotion. He was then only twenty-seven years old. At he was made general freight and passenger agent for the great C. B. & Q. system.

Succeeded Mellen in 1903.

In January, 1896, came another promotion. He was made general manager of the Missouri lines of the Burlington roads, and four years later he was made general manager of the main section of the Burlington. In May, 1901, he was made second vice-president of the road, and then in 1903 the Northern Pacific took him to succeed Mellen as president.

BOY HELD FOR STATION BREAK.

Michael Glynn, 19, of Concord street, South End, was held in $500 bail in the Dedham Court today on a charge of attempting to break into the Wellesley railroad station.

GREEKS CABLE $1,000 WAR RELIEF FUND.

LOWELL, July 23.—Lowell Greeks today cabled $1,000 to the Greek premier at Athens to be used for the relief of those suffering as a result of the Bulgarian atrocities.

Held on Forgery Charge.

Charles H. Atwood, twenty-eight, of Woburn was arrested in Portland and brought to Boston today charged with uttering a check for $31, and forging the name of James Moren of the Sock Bag.

Burns' Works for U. S.

stered in the building dangerously near the stairway from the upper floors; that the women were told by fire drill leaders that there was no fire and that the fire escapes were so exposed that many of the dead were burned while trying to descend.

Hundreds of men, women and children are gathered about the ruins today, frantically awaiting the result of the search for more bodies. Many of them, parents and other relatives of women employes who are unaccounted for, remained at the spot all night, while searchlights and lines of hose played over the ruins.

Leaped From Fourth Floor.

A scene of persons escaped, as by a miracle, from the building, which burst into flames like a tinder box and became a roaring furnace almost in no time.

When the fire escapes became choked bodies became dropping. They fell thick and fast. Many who jumped, even from the topmost floor, escaped with their lives, although most of them were badly maimed. It was on the fourth floor that most of the women operators were working, and it was among these that the loss of life and injury was greatest.

Fred B. Freeman, president of the company, said today:

"Some of our employes are so addicted to the cigarette habit that, smoking being forbidden in the building, they go out into the alley every hour or so for a puff. I believe that one of these, on returning to his work, threw the butt of his cigarette under the stairway.

"As we ran out into the streets the bodies of girls began to drop from the upper floor windows. They seemed more like sacks of flour than human beings.

Tells of Heroism.

"I believe it will be found that the heads of the departments showed splendid heroism in sticking to their posts and directing the girls. Under the rules of the fire drill they were so instructed, and I believe some died in the flames."

Stories of heroism, pathos and remarkable escapes abounded today.

One of the most pathetic cases at the hospital is that of Ruth Crotty, who is dying with a broken spine. Miss Crotty came here a week ago from Port Jervis to work with her two sisters, neither of whom, so far as can be learned, escaped from the fire.

"When I first heard the alarm of fire," said Miss Crotty, "I jumped from my chair and started for the stairs, but when I reached them they were so crowded I could not get down. In another instant the whole story was ablaze."

Miss Crotty jumped from a window.

Driven Mad by Burns.

Vernon Wilbur, superintendent of service in the burned shop, said:

"Lyn Dibble and I ran to the fire escape and climbed up our ladder. We dropped two girls to the men below. They were standing five or six deep in each window with the flames directly behind them. They were mad with pain, and the sound of their cries was as if the wind was howling in our ears."

Mrs. Ida Hotaling, an operator, who jumped from a third story window, said:

"When I found our retreat down the stairs was entirely cut off, I gave up all hope. I felt my way along the wall to a window and threw myself out headlong.

"The fact that there was but one stairway kept many back. Maddened by flames leading from the fourth to the third floor was the only means of getting down and when we reached the third floor the rear staircase was a mass of flames, while the front stairs were burning rapidly. The floors were soaked with oil from the machines, while the lint and scraps on the floor were inflammable material."

Esther Raskin, nineteen years old, jumped from the second story, sustaining a compound fracture of one leg. She also was badly scarred by the flames which burst up the stairway.

Dozen Come to Rescue.

"When the fire alarm was sent in everybody thought they were 'fooling' us because they did it two weeks ago," Miss Raskin said. "Everything was on fire about me and I couldn't breathe. I got to a window and jumped. The next thing I knew it seemed as though the ground all about me was afire and I would roast to death. I tried to get up, but fell back when a dozen or more men came to me, picked me up and put me in an ambulance. That was the first time in my life I had so many fellows," and she smiled bravely.

Betty Hamilton Jilts Lord Fails in Turkey Trot Test Nobleman 'Stiff, Clumsy'

MISS BETTY HAMILTON, who says she refused to marry an English nobleman because he turkey trots so clumsily.

Instead Returning Voyager Will Wed Canadian Who Has 'Lots of Money'

Went Abroad Fully Expecting Title, but Cabaret Was Undoing.

When Miss Betty Hamilton, daughter of a wealthy Guatemalan planter, sailed for England two months ago she said she was going to marry a real, live English lord. She would not give his name.

Yesterday she returned to New York aboard the Kronprins Wilhelm with the news that she had discarded the lord in favor of a simple Canadian with lots of money and that she will be married within the next two weeks at the hotel where she is staying.

"All American girls like to know men with titles," said Miss Hamilton. "I really intended to marry the lord until he took me to a cabaret and started to 'turkey trot.' He was so stiff and clumsy that I there and then made up my mind that he would not be a good husband for me.

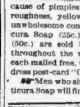
"I did not tell him so then, as I was not quite sure whether I loved my Canadian friend well enough to marry him. I thought the matter over and at tea at the Hotel Savoy next day I accepted the Canadian and wrote a note to the lord. I am sure I acted wisely and I feel I shall be happier as plain Mrs. instead of Lady So-and-So."

Restores Secular Rights to Priest

LONDON, July 23.—The Pope has set his seal on a much debated case of exceptional interest in ecclesiastical law. Father Gaetano Arena, an Italian secular priest who has been exercising the functions of priesthood for twelve years, recently desired to be freed from all sacerdotal obligations on the plea that he was morally constrained by his parents while under age to enter the ministry. The Pope pronounces the ordination of Arena null, and will restore to him all the rights of a secular member.

HAIR CAME OUT BY HANDFULS

Eczema on Head. Dandruff Scaled Off. Itched and Burned. Scratched and Made Sores. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Completely Cured.



R. F. D. No. 5, Brewer, Me.—"I had been troubled with eczema on my head for a year. At first it came on in the form of dandruff which scaled off and showed plainly in my hair and then there was a rash that itched and burned and would wake me from my sleep. I scratched and made sores that would bleed. My hair came out by handfuls and was thin and dry.

"I used several kinds of soap without getting any relief. At last I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment, applying the Cuticura Ointment at night and washing my head in the morning with Cuticura Soap and warm water and after the first time using them the itching and burning stopped. After using Cuticura Soap and Ointment one month my head was completely cured and my hair began to grow out again." (Signed) Miss Annie E. Williamson, Nov. 7, 1912.

The regular use of Cuticura Soap for toilet and bath not only tends to preserve, purify and beautify the skin, scalp, hair and hands, but assists in preventing inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores, the common cause of pimples, blackheads, redness and roughness, yellow, oily, mothy and other unwholesome conditions of the skin. Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

MOTOR BOAT BANDIT HAUNTS SOUTH SHORE

A motor boat bandit—who habitually wears a natty blue suit, and a fashionable Panama hat and whose gray motor boat has a fine kick in her heels—has terrorized south Duxbury and Marshfield during the last week, and has made almost a dozen successful burglaries.

He steals only cash, and his known loot totals over $200.

Despairing of any help from the local police the residents have appealed to Chief Johanna Whitney of the State police, for help in capturing the bandit.

The bandit is particular in his looting. He never takes jewelry or anything but cash. Furthermore, he has a sense of humor. For when he takes a man's roll of bills, he always puts in place of it a roll of newspaper cut the same size as the bills, with a $1 bill on the outside. At the home of Elson Lunt, Marshfield, the thief got $80, and at the home of Walter Harding, South Duxbury, he got $40 from Harding's trousers.

Tuesday night Frank J. Tuttle's Marshfield home was entered. He is clerk of the Dorchester Municipal Court. Two guests, Fred Simons and Harold Eaton, sleeping together, were awakened by a flash. They yelled. The bandit departed via a kitchen window. The two—night shirt clad—gave chase. The bandit skipped nimbly down the beach, jumped in his motor boat, gave the fly-wheel a twirl, and faded into the mists toward Scituate.

President Scares Away Lobbyists

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Doorkeepers of the House declare that President Wilson's war on the "insidious lobby" has made lobbyists scarcer than ever before. They say that whereas lobbyists formerly made dozens of trips during the day to the House chamber with cards of visitors to members, they now make very few such trips. They attribute the scarcity of lobbyists to the wave of lobby investigation.

Goodwin. The deer had been suffering and its leg showed no sign of healing up.

FLIRTING AT 1 A. M. COSTS ADMIRER $25

Edward F. Needham was fined $25 today by Judge Sweetser in the Malden Court on the charge of flirting with Mrs. Bessie H. Mullen of Crescent street, Everett. He was given until Monday to pay or appeal.

The case involved odd complications. There was evidence of an invitation for a lunch in a Malden square cafe, a lost car, a street fight, the arrest of a young man who tried to protect Mrs. Mullen and two court hearings to fix the guilt on the real master.

Mrs. Mullen testified:

The Woman's Story.

I had been visiting my sister-in-law in East Boston and reached Malden square on a late car. I just missed a car to Everett and went into a cafe for a cup of coffee and a sandwich. When I came out I saw two young men talking with a policeman. I asked when the next car would leave for Everett. It was then 1 a. m.

It was so long before the next car was due I decided to walk home. I had gone several blocks when I discovered a young man was following. He whistled repeatedly. I walked faster. Then I saw another man on the other side. I asked if he would walk back with me. He consented.

Then the other man came up, caught me by the arm and made an insulting remark. At the same time he pushed the man who came to my rescue and they had a fight. I decided to hurry along.

Her Champion Runs.

Mrs. Mullen's champion was George F. Blanchett of Everett. While he defended himself against the attack of Needham, the latter whistled. Blanchett thought his assistant was calling a gang and retreated.

Then Patrolman Bruce came along, and with Needham chased Blanchett and arrested him. Blanchett told of succoring the woman. The police found Mrs. Mullen's name and address.

She accepted the abused Blanchett and made a complaint against Needham, who is twenty-four and lives at No. 37 Lewis street. Blanchett's case was dismissed.

TURKS SLAY AND BURN IN ADRIANOPLE

LONDON, July 23.—Turkey will undoubtedly have the Powers to deal with following the depredations committed by the Ottoman army on its re-entry into Adrianople and Kirk Kilisch.

Advices received here today state that the Turks, half crazed by their unchecked march into the cities captured from them during the recent Turco-Balkan war, applied the torch to many buildings and massacred many of the inhabitants.

Roumania is imposing condition after condition on Bulgaria as the only means of ending the conflict. In an official note to Sofia today, Roumania insists that she be allowed to retain strategic positions on the frontier; that specified privileges shall be extended to the Roumanian population in Macedonia and that the peace negotiations shall be opened in Roumanian territory after the armistice has been signed.

It was stated officially today that Servia and Greece have agreed to Roumania's proposition to discuss an armistice with Bulgaria. The preliminary discussion will be held at Nish, and it is expected that the armistice will be concluded within two days.

On all the hills in Newton have been posted signs like this:

(Signed) FREDERIC MITCHELL,

People who live on graded streets have complained that automobilists have used muffler cut-outs in order to climb hills easier, although tests have shown that the cut-out does not aid the engine. Former business friends and associates today attended the funeral services of Cardenio F. King at his home, No. 134 Winthrop street, Winthrop. The casket was banked by wreaths and pillars of flowers.

Services were held at 2 p. m. Rev. Dillon Bronson of St. Mark's Methodist Episcopal Church, Brookline, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Charles F. Otto, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Winthrop.

The Imperial Quartet sang several hymns, some of which were Mr. King's favorites—"Lead, Kindly Light," "Nearer, My God, to Thee," "When the Mist Has Cleared Away."

The body was removed to the South Station for transportation to North Carolina, where it will be buried by the side of King's mother.

Wades in Boiling Water to Save Lives

BROCKTON, July 23.—Wading through boiling water, C. G. Eaton, engineer at the Preston B. Keith factory on Market street proved himself a hero today by leaking the fires under the boilers in the engine room and opening the steam valves to avoid an explosion. He was badly burned about the feet.

Eaton is a new man at the factory, and shortly before noon hour saw volumes of escaping steam filling the building. The steam caused 500 of the employes, men and women, to leave the place hurriedly, believing the building was on fire.

After the steam had left the pipes, an examination was made of the boilers. An iron pipe was found leading to the boiler. This pipe had a large hole.

"Exciting" Meeting of Foss and Walsh

The leading VOLUNTARY Democratic candidate for Governor—Lieutenant-Governor David I. Walsh—and the leading Republican INVOLUNTARY candidate—Governor Eugene N. Foss—met today at the State House for the first time since Walsh announced his willingness to accept the nomination.

The conversation which followed was thrilling. Said Walsh:

"Good morning, Governor."

Foss—Why, Dave—Good morning—Nice weather, Dave? (Governor Foss is getting a reputation as a weather sharp.)

Walsh—Very fine day—yes, sir.

Then Walsh went to the council room and Foss to the Governor's office.

GUGGENHEIM SHOWS HE HAS TO BE SHOWN

Daniel Guggenheim of the "House of Guggenheim," merchants in metals, mines and high finance generally, gave another illustration in the Rees-Borrage hearing today of the way in which the "House of Guggenheim" has to be "shown" before it will take up a mining proposition.

Mr. Guggenheim said yesterday: "We are very conservative."

Talny Sherman L. Whipple, counsel for Lewis Rees, asked questions about the Bradley Process, a new method employed to get copper from low grade ore.

Mr. Guggenheim smiled blandly and said:

"We the Guggenheims believed the Bradley process might be successful in time. But our own chemist has formulated a process which, to date, is better than the Bradley."

Mr. Guggenheim said this is a very matter of fact tone, but it was taken as a most indication of the fact that Daniel Guggenheim and his six brothers always want the cold test of their own experts on anything.

This case is being heard before Thomas W. Proctor, as master, at the Suffolk Courthouse. Lewis Rees, a Brookline mining engineer, is suing Albert C. Burrage for 5 per cent. of $25,000,000 worth of stock in the Cible Copper Company, which was afforded to Mr. Burrage. Mr. Guggenheim was brought in as witness to relate negotiations between Mr. Burrage and the Guggenheims over the Cible property.

Mr. Whipple wanted Mr. Guggenheim to tell all about the tests and processes on ore that come from the Cible mines. Mr. Guggenheim couldn't recall the secretions and Mr. Whipple turned to Henry F. Hurlburt, counsel for Mr. Burrage, and asked that all reports of assays and shipments be produced.

When Mr. Proctor entered, the only man who rose in greeting was Daniel Guggenheim.

Mr. Whipple asked:

"How are your reports received and what do your agents do in reporting to you?"

Mr. Guggenheim replied: "We ask of our men: 'What is the result of your work? Is it successful? If not, why not?' That is the way we do our business."

CALUMET, Mich., July 23.—Between 15,000 and 20,000 copper miners of the upper peninsular went on strike today tying up twenty mines in four counties. The men demand shorter hours and an increase in wages. The Calumet & Hecla, the biggest copper producer in the world, has been shut down. The men were recently organized by the Western Federation of Miners.

LAWRENCE ICE CONSUMERS ASK AID OF SWIFT

Attorney General Swift today received a protest from Lawrence regarding the ice situation in that city, demanding a thorough investigation. It is declared that the situation in Lawrence is as bad as anywhere in the Commonwealth.

The Lawrence Ice Company and Toye's Ice Company, according to the charges sent the Attorney General, control practically all the ice business in Lawrence. They have the same scale of prices.

"These two firms for several years," it is complained, "have always had an excuse to keep the price of ice up to the limit; one season it is because of the scarcity of ice, and another because the ice is too thick and too hard to cut."

"Not alone is the public mulcted through smaller pieces of ice at almost prohibitive prices, but the service also this Summer is far poorer. In consequence of the higher cost of ice even people who could afford to buy it regularly in seasons past feel it their duty to resist this latest extortion."

Boston Women Who Have Made Good

NO. 2.—MISS MABEL HARLOW

By JOHN P. WHITMAN.

Miss Mabel Harlow is another Boston woman who has made good in a difficult profession. Born in Bangor, Maine, she came to Boston ten years ago to do designing.

For three years she was designer for the University Press in Cambridge. She resigned to go into business for herself. Seven years ago, with Miss Bertha M. Howland, she opened an office and advertised herself as an interior decorator. Business came slowly, but today she is sought by the wealthiest to decorate Boston's most luxurious homes.

Faces Hard Conditions.

Miss Harlow's principles for success in her profession are as simple as the qualities are rare. She says:

Common sense, a mathematical mind, some knowledge of designing and the ability to use brush and pencil—these are the essentials for success as a designer.

Hundreds of girls who have some knowledge of art and have a fair sense of color are nevertheless failures when it comes to succeeding as interior decorators.

My partner and I, Miss Howland, are on the job all the time, and every year there is greater and greater demand for our time.

An essential requirement, put concretely, for an interior decorator is a background that is made up of a wide knowledge of the historical sequence of architecture and the many stages of decoration.

While the ability to sketch with brush and pencil is essential, most of the actual work can be done by others. One should not have to spend time in actually doing the work. Direction, intelligence and care is what is needed

I insist upon a knowledge of arithmetic, for in this many girls fail. Hardly one girl in a hundred is able to calculate the number of rolls required to paper a room.

A knowledge of business methods and an understanding of bookkeeping must balance the artistic temperament.

There must be a capacity for enthusiastic work. The need for much tact and an understanding of people must be a part of a successful equipment.

All these qualities Miss Harlow appears to possess, and today she and her partner are overwhelmed with Summer work that requires all of their time and energy. Miss Harlow said further:

The best place for girls to start in the profession of interior decorating is in New York or in the West. There people do not take so long to make up their minds and houses are made over simply to be in fashion and up-to-date, while in Boston customers do much talking and have their houses arranged with the idea that their grandchildren will be content with what they find.

Miss Mabel Harlow, designer, Boston woman who has succeeded.

Tobacco Habit Easily Conquered

A well-known New Yorker of wide experience, has written a book telling how the tobacco or snuff habit may be easily and completely banished in three days with delightful benefit.

The health improves wonderfully after the nicotine poison is out of the system. Calmness, tranquil sleep, clear eyes, normal appetite, good digestion, manly vigor, strong memory and a general gain in efficiency are among the many benefits reported. No more of that nervous feeling; no more need of pipe, cigar, cigarette or chewing tobacco to pacify the morbid desire. The author, Edw. J. Woods, 534 Sixth Ave., 804 E. New York City, will send his book free on application, to anyone who writes to him.

Love's Tiny Smacks Delay Mighty Liner

West Point Cadet, a Happy Miss, too Long Is Bliss of Farewell Kiss.

NEW YORK, July 23.—"A last kiss, my darling?" He got it.

Miss Eva Mountrey of Louisville, Ky., sailed on the Kaiser Wilhelm II.; her fiance, Augustus Dillon, a West Point cadet, bade her a fond au revoir.

"All visitors ashore!" shouted a petty officer near the sweethearts. "A very, very last kiss, mine own?" begged the cadet.

Chief Officer Moeller interrupted the clinging embrace.

"Young man," said Moeller, "you have held the ship three minutes. Go ashore!"

Waldo Finds New Cab System for New York

PARIS, July 23.—Police Commissioner Waldo, who is leaving on Friday for Berlin with Mrs. Waldo, visited the Paris detective department. He seemed favorably impressed by the new Paris regulation compelling automobiles and cabs to keep to the cab ranks in the centres of streets when waiting for fares. On August 1, he added, this plan will be adopted in New York.

All Portugal in Royalist Revolt

MADRID, July 23.—The Portuguese republic is said to be tottering. The country is overran with revolutionary movement to re-establish the monarchy. Travelers from Portugal who arrived here today say that the movement is the best organized since King Manuel was dethroned and is spreading everywhere. Troops are being rushed to all points to check the rapidly spreading rebellion.

MERRY HA! HA! TO CUT DOWN COST OF TABLE

FATHER—Got a good dinner tonight, Ma?

MOTHER—Well, there isn't much meat, but Jennie has two new records for the phonograph and the cook has a couple of good jokes the iceman told her.

FATHER—That's all right, then. A couple of jokes and a ragtime piece are just as good as a pound of steak. And they keep the store hot down.

That's the line of family talk that may be heard when the public learns the new lesson being taught by Dr. G. Stanley Hall, president of Clark University.

Dr. Hall, who is now lecturing in the West, says, according to dispatches today from Greeley, Colo.

"Everything affects the appetite. A clean napkin, good table talk, companionship, flowers and music will make food go twice as far. A good joke is a digester and good cooking a preventive of intemperance."

According to this, if a man cracks a merry jest at the table, the family will laugh and eat less, because the food will go twice as far as when everyone has a grouch.

The scheme is tough on a man who loses his job, however. He naturally feels sore, and so he eats more than ever. The less he has the higher his bills.

It is not expected that the grocer and butcher will think much of Dr. Hall's plan.

A few weeks ago a sneak thief managed to get $20 from a cash drawer at another counter of the same store and escaped.

17 ARE SAVED FROM BURNING BARRON YACHT

Twelve young women and five men were saved from the power boat Skip, owned by Clarence W. Barron, when the boat caught fire from a spark off Gun Rock near the Hull shore and threw the passengers into a panic.

Manuel F. Oliver, in another power boat, saw the danger, and running along side transferred the party to his own boat, and towed the blazing boat to shore.

Knowing that fifty gallons of gasoline were stored on the Skip, and that it would explode if the flames reached it, two of the girls had already leaped into the water, but were rescued by ropes before the arrival of Oliver's boat.

A fire alarm called out the automobile fire engine from Center Hill, and from long range the firemen played a stream on the boat. The flames were only stopped when they had burned the boat nearly to the water's edge. The boat, valued at $1,500, is a total loss.

The rescued party was taken home to Cohasset in automobiles, some suffering from anything worse than slight burns.

Waltham Mayor Grants Plea of Sick Child's Mother.

Brown street, a busy thoroughfare in Waltham is closed to traffic for two hundred yards in order to save the life of thirteen-year-old Daisy Stratton, who is critically ill with nervous hysteria, brought on by her successful effort to gain promotion from the eighth to the ninth grade in the South Grammar School.

Mrs. Maude Stratton, Daisy's mother, went to Mayor Patrick J. Duane and asked if part of Brown street could not be closed to teaming for a space either side of the Stratton home, at No. 38. Inside of an hour this had been done. Barriers were put up, with lanterns, to warn drivers at night to go no farther.

The police are searching for a fashionably dressed young man with a cane seen walking with her toward the railroad station yesterday. Miss Labelle is expected to recover. Most of the time she has been in a semi-comatose state.

Ledgers heard moans and found her on the floor of her room.

Unable to Attend Convention, but Congratulates Organization.

President Wilson has sent the following letter to Director C. L. Drake of the New England Organization of the Gideons who will hold their annual convention this year at Old Orchard Beach, Me., August 11-13:

I thank you for the cordial invitation which you extended to me in your letter June 26. I deeply appreciate your courtesy and I wish it were possible for me to accept the invitation I address your organization. As I cannot do so, I use this opportunity to congratulate the Gideons on the spirit, work they are doing. You have my best wishes for future success.

Truly yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

Brockton Man Ill, Ends Life with Gun

BROCKTON, July 23. Breakfast didn't taste good to John Johnson, thirty-eight, of No. 28 Longwood avenue, today. He hadn't been feeling well for days. He sat and thought it over for a while, then went to his room and ended his life with a gun.

Malden Pastor Resigns.

Rev. Carl Peterson, pastor of the Swedish Congregational Church, Malden, has resigned to go to Attleboro. A call has been extended to the Rev. Henry Nelson of Kenosha, Minn., to succeed Mr. Peterson.

Argentinian Folk Smoke $3 Cigars

Toss 'Em Around Like "Three for Quarter," Says Dillingham.

Herman Dillingham, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who managed the South American tour, says the most impressive thing he saw on the trip was the way the Argentinians handle cigars that cost $3 apiece. He returned from New York today.

"It's awful," he said, "the way those people in Buenos Aires spend money. You see the country opened up quick, and the people that used to be 'land poor' suddenly found themselves millionaires.

"'How can we spend it?' was the first thing they asked themselves, and they learned how. I've seen $3 cigars tossed around as though they came three for a quarter.

"But we got our share of the cigars—so we should worry. They're good fellows, those Argentinians."

"Hap" Ward Not to Erect New Club

"Hap" Ward has notified the Lynnfield selectmen that he no longer desires permission to build a new country club on the Ward and Yokes estate at Suntang Lake. He says his reason is because the selectmen have been too slow in acting. The selectmen, however, say there is a connection between Ward's action and the recent extremely successful rush on the Lynnway Club at the Point of Pines.

MELLEN HAPPY, NOW PLANNING TO RAISE GOATS

Charles S. Mellen says he is so happy he is walking on air. So he told the Boston News Bureau, which today prints the result of a trip one of their men took to Stockbridge to see the retiring head of the New Haven.

The News Bureau, which has always been Mellen's semi-official spokesman, says Mr. Mellen is worth about $750,000 and that he owns 1,600 shares of New Haven stock which he bought at an average of $165 a share and some as high as $214, and he has never sold a share. If his enemies "got his goat" Mr. Mellen won't admit it, for here is what he said to the reporter:

Mr. Mellen has for 44 years served railroads.

One of the exactions he has been most insistent upon is absolute loyalty on the part of those who have served him. He exacts the same loyalty of himself to those he has served.

To his friends in New York he will after his resignation?

I intend to go back to Stockbridge and raise goats. There ought to be money in it, as there is a growing demand for these animals.

Brady Killed by Westport Wreck

New Haven Horror Robbed Him of Daughter and 3 Other Relatives.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Anthony N. Brady, capitalist and Broadway figure, Transit director, is dead at the Carlton Hotel in London today, according to dispatches never having received from the shock he sustained when the daughter and three other relatives were killed in the terrible wreck on the New Haven road at Westport, Ct.

He left for England, broken down by this family misfortune, a week ago. His friends believed then he was dying. Brady was seventy-two. His rise to fortune was remarkable. He quit school at fifteen to do odd jobs around a hotel. He died possessed of millions.

BURY CHELSEA BOY VICTIM OF BEEBE AUTO

Mrs. John Semblosky of Chelsea fainted in the vestibule of St. Stanislaus' Polish Catholic Church today after the funeral mass for her ten-year-old son, Harry. He is the boy who was killed by J. Arthur Beebe's automobile on Broadway, Chelsea, last Monday night, when Mr. Beebe was hastening to the Hotel Touraine, where his daughter, Miss Emily Esther Beebe, had committed suicide.

The dead lad had been an altar boy at St. Stanislaus' and the thirteen remaining altar boys marched in the funeral procession. Fifty children from St. Stanislaus' parochial school attended. The six young brothers and sisters of the auto victim were also pathetic figures at the funeral mass.

Among those at the church were Rev. George S. Fiske, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church of Orient Heights. Mr. Fiske is a nephew of Mr. Beebe, and it was thought that he was asked to attend by Mr. Beebe to show the Beebe family regret at the tragedy in the Semblosky family, even at the time when the Beebe household is shadowed with grief. Mr. Fiske was accompanied by William O. Fisher.

While the Semblosky family was burying its dead arrangements for the funeral of Miss Beebe were being made in Boston. The body of the girl who took her own life, was removed from undertaking rooms to which it was sent from the Hotel Touraine, where the suicide took place.

The funeral will take place tomorrow morning in Trinity Church. Only friends of the family will attend. The place of interment is not announced yet. The real reason for Miss Beebe's sad act remains a mystery.

Frank Smith, chauffeur of the Beebe car which killed Harry Semblosky, is held in $1,000 bonds on a charge of manslaughter for a continued hearing in Chelsea District Court on August 1. Mr. Beebe gave bail for him.

The combined production of Belgium, Bosnia, Denmark, Spain, Italy, Luxemburg, Switzerland, the United States, India, Japan, Great Britain, European Russia and Hungary is estimated at 1,962,000,000 bushels, or 100.2 per cent. of last year's production.

Arc Lights Take Count at Onset

Knocked Out by Cupid at Behest of Sweethearts.

ONSET, July 23.—After a short bout for the Romance purse, Dan Cupid has knocked out Electric Light.

The result is highly satisfactory to the big gallery of young couples who have been solidly against Electric Light from the first.

In sporting language, the Selectmen were referees for this bout. The electric lighting plant, recently installed, was allowed by the Selectmen to light all the streets, parks, walks and cosy places all night. Electric Light bullied the town, in the opinion of the sweethearts.

But Cupid came to their rescue with a challenge to Electric Light, saying he was all evening leather. Now the Selectmen have ruled that electric lights shall go out at 8 p. m., except on the main streets.

Bryan Gives Last Lecture Tonight

WATERLOO, Ia., July 23.—Secretary of State Bryan will deliver his last lecture here, at least, tonight at Chautauqua, and will then hurry back to his job at Washington.

Bryan has changed his platform topics and refuses to talk on any subject connected with the State Department. So careful is he, in fact, that instead of talking on "Current Issues," as advertised, he changed his subject to "The Making of a Man."

POST'S REPORT ON FOSS STRIKE MADE PUBLIC

"Circumstances I am at a loss to explain," says Louis F. Post, Assistant Secretary of Labor, in his report—made public today—on the Foss strike, "prevented the amicable settlement that might otherwise have been made with honor to both sides."

Mr. Post spent several days in Boston last week investigating the strike and seeking to bring the two parties together. He gave up negotiations, after transmitting to the men an ultimatum from Governor Foss. This ultimatum read:

The factories are willing to adjust all individual grievances individually, after the employes return to work, but not before. They are also willing to receive the strikers back on the terms that prevailed at the time of the strike. They harbor no resentment against the strikers. They have not and do not intend to employ strike-breakers, but are depending upon the good will of the mass of the old employes to re-establish the friendly relations that have existed for twenty years.

They regard this strike as having been instigated and stimulated for political purposes, hostile to Governor Foss, a principal owner, and for this reason are unwilling even to consider a friendly agreement with international labor organizations with a view to guarding against similar strikes in the future for political or other illegitimate purposes.

Secretary Post, in his report, details his conferences with both the men and Governor Foss. He says:

The strike appeared to turn on a question of the adequacy of wages. The strikers claimed wages were low, and were being lowered, and that union men had been discharged, and that appearances had been significant of an attempt to force the employes to strike.

Revere Committee to Notify Board

Moderator Robert Pirie of the special Revere town meeting Monday night, following John B. Seward, Moses Michel, Henry J. Steffington, Clarence E. Clisbee and Bayard C. Taylor, a committee to notify the selectmen of the board meeting's action accepting the resignation of Samuel A. Segee, former chairman of the assessors and now under sentence for falsifying public records.

The committee will also tell the selectmen the town meeting demanded the resignation of Assessor Charles S. Bates.

Shoe Men Strike Over Cloth Screens

ROCKLAND, July 23.—Twenty employes of the E. P. Wright & Co. shoe factory struck today because the company put cheesecloth screens in the windows to shut out dust from the varnishing room. They say it bars the air and hurts sight of the street. The company replies that their newly installed ventilating system changes the air every 90 minutes in the whole factory.

CLEVELAND, O., July 23.—Today's game with the Naps will be the last of the Western series for the Red Sox. The team will leave for Boston tonight, where it opens up a series with the Chicago White Sox on Friday.

The present series stands two to one in Cleveland's favor. The Sox must win today in order to get an even break, and Bill Carrigan will probably send another youngster against the Naps in the person of George Foster, who, after a successful showing in St. Louis, was severely thumped in Chicago and Detroit.

Fred Falkenberg, the "human beanstalk" and famous "come back," will do the pitching for Cleveland.

Two Unusual Plays.

Two very unusual plays came up in yesterday's frolic between the Naps and Red Sox, two plays that probably will never be repeated in the same game this season.

It was in the fifth inning that Tris Speaker attempted to steal home, taking advantage of Vean Gregg's big windup. Tris speeded for the plate at breakneck speed and made a swell slide. Carisch, however, took Gregg's pitch and put the ball on the Texan.

Hildebrand waved his hand signifying the third out and everybody believed that Speaker had been caught stealing. It so happened, however, that Hildebrand had called the pitch a strike and as it was the third strike on Gardner, he said not Speaker was ruled out.

Speaker, Wagner, Carrigan and in fact all of the Boston players argued loud and long with Hildebrand on that strike decision, contending that if a strike was really called, Carisch would never have tried to put the ball on Speaker.

Hildebrand replied that the Boston players' stand was not well taken, explaining that Carisch would have been a poor player indeed had he not tried for Speaker sliding into the plate when he saw Tris dashing home with the ball half way from the pitcher's rubber to the registering station and waited for a ruling from the umpire.

Sidelights on Sports

By A. H. G. MITCHELL

IT was by eight, maybe, to lose the second game, but the Pills should have had that first game. Doubtless there is great rejoicing in Cincinnati today over the double victory. Victories of any sort have come hard for the Reds this year. Two of them in one day is an unexpected pleasure for them.

WHILE allowing the visitors to enjoy themselves, let us not forget that they were lucky to turn the trick. The Bostons outhit the visitors and only the "breaks" prevented the home team from winning—breaks and too much activity on the part of Captain Bill Sweeney. Captain Bill ran away out in right field in the tenth and interfered with the catching of a high fly by Lord. It would have made the third out. There was a man on first at the time and in the mixup that followed the muff the gent scored the winning run for the Reds.

THERE still seems to be a fearful lack of team work on fly balls hit over Sweeney's head and in front of the right fielder. Sweeney goes after them all. Many of them are rightfully the right fielder's ball. There seem to be no rules from any of the other Boston players calling on one of the other of the men to take the ball and as a result there are collisions and near collisions. It is the same whether Tris is playing right field or Lord. Sweeney runs out just the same and keeps on running. Will not some one please call the play so that Captain Bill or the right fielder will take it?

IN the case of the fly that Lord muffed, it may be said that he might have muffed it if Sweeney hadn't been within a thousand miles of him, but from the stand it looked as though Bill interfered with the outfielder—not actually touching him, but throwing him off and making him fear a collision. Let us please have some team work out there.

IT was a day for the umpires to get hurt. Brennan, in the first game, was hit twice. The first time the unfeeling crowd cheered. And the crowd began to cheer the second time he was hit, but when he was seen writhing in pain the laughter ceased. It was thought for a time that the umpire's collar bone was broken, but it was found to be intact and Brennan continued the game. In the second battle, however, he retired to the side lines and allowed Mal Eason to officiate behind the bat. Eason was touched up by a foul tip before the game had progressed far and it took considerable rubbing before he could continue.

Why do the crowds laugh and cheer when the umpire is hurt? That is one of the strange things about baseball crowds.

TWO of the most spectacular plays ever written on the historic old grounds—the oldest in the country—were pulled off in the double-header. The first came toward the close of the first game. It was in the first half of the tenth inning. Sheckard, the first man up, drove the ball hard between Mann and Lord. Mann started on the dead run for the bleachers, the place where he thought the ball would go and after a long, hard sprint he found he couldn't quite get to the ball so he made a flying leap, stuck out his gloved hand and speared the ball just as it was falling. Many old-timers said it was the best catch they had ever seen in the park.

THE second great catch came in the second game. It was in the second inning. Egan was on second and Groh at the bat. He drove a fly ball to right close to the foul line. Hay Myers started on the dead run backwards, but no one thought he could come anywhere near catching the ball. However, he saw the pill settling over his shoulder and reaching out his left hand just got the ball. The ball, however, jumped out of the left hand and over Hap's shoulder, but the player shot out his right hand and nabbed the ball before it reached the ground. In the meantime Egan had reached third, never suspecting Myers could catch the ball, and it was a very easy matter for Hap to toss to Maranville for a double play.

A NOTE in this column complained that little Joe Connolly did not get up much speed in chasing balls that he misjudges or that get by him. The writer didn't know at the time that Connolly was suffering from a sprained ankle. The injury grew worse in the first game of the double-header and the little fellow had to retire.

BILL PHELON, the Cincinnati newspaper man who is traveling with the Reds, thinks that Almeida, the Cuban player who was released to Montreal, is altogether too good a man to be sent to the minors. Phelon believes Almeida would have been just the man for the Bostons to secure. He says the Cuban is a fence buster and would make many a home run on the South End grounds. Of course, Bill is of the opinion that the Reds are a far better team than the Bostons. On the showing of yesterday, maybe they are, but Bill will have to show us something more than the Reds have shown here thus far to convince Boston "fans" that Tinker's aggregation is better than the Boston team. Stallings' men should have won nearly every game in which the two teams have met this season. If Bill wants to bet he can find "fans" in this town that will wager him that more than one team will separate the Pilgrims and the Reds at the close of the season and that Boston will not be the under dog in the argument.

PILGRIMS AFTER AN EVEN BREAK WITH THE REDS

The unexpected setback of the Pilgrims by the Cincinnati Reds yesterday has put the local team "up against it," as the saying goes, and they must now win the remaining two games to get an even break in the series and also in the present home stay.

The Cincinnati team did not show anything that would indicate that they really won on their merits, but the play of the Pilgrims was not up to its usual standard, that is the fine playing that they have done against the other Western teams, and they must show a brace in teamwork if they expect to win today.

Manager Stallings of the Pilgrims, after a brief absence from his duties caused by the illness of his wife, is back on the job today. The condition of Mrs. Stallings has greatly improved and the illness is not as serious as it was thought to be at first.

Stallings will probably send "Hub" Perdue after the Reds today. "Hub" has had a fairly good rest now and should be in shape to pitch a fine game today.

"Miner" Brown, who saved the Reds in both games yesterday and gets credit for two victories although he pitched but a few balls, may get an opportunity to boost his record some more today as he is scheduled to start against the Pilgrims. Three straight in two days for the pitcher is going some, still, if the veteran shows any of the stuff that he did yesterday, he has a good chance of sending the Pilgrims down for the third time.

"Little Joe" Connolly's ankle is in bad shape and he may be given a chance to rest it today.

Seldom-Used Rule Enforced by Rigler

BROOKLYN, July 23.—Umpire Rigler enforced a rule in the ninth inning yesterday that seldom is violated. When Phelps took the place of Pitcher Stack at the bat in this period, Stack proceeded to the coacher's box near third base and began advising the base runners what to do. Rigler quickly noticed Stack and as the batter was no longer in the game he was ordered to the bench by the umpire in chief without first receiving protest from the Cardinals. Stack laughed as he gave way to Fischer and sat down. Then Rigler was applauded by Huggins.

FAVORITES WIN THREE MATCHES AT BROOKLINE

In the three singles matches in the Eastern singles championship, played at the Longwood Cricket Club, Brookline, this morning, three favorites were winners.

W. M. Johnston, the young Californian who furnished the surprise of the first round by putting no lesser light than "Gus" Touchard out of the running, sailed through with a straight set victory over Gardner Beals, and while the last set went to deuce, the outcome of the match was never in doubt.

A. S. Dabney, one of the local cracks, who is much better known as a doubles player than otherwise, won a brilliant match from Dean Mathey on the championship court, this proving to be the feature match of the morning's play.

G. M. Church of Tenafly, N. J., a former holder of the Interscholastic and Florida championship tennis titles, was the third winner, defeating M. C. Bangs in straight sets, and showing the steadiness and ability to "get" that has pushed him ahead in the tennis world since he gained prominence as a schoolboy.

Dabney and Mathey the Feature.

The match between Dabney and Mathey, which was chosen by the several hundred spectators as the one most liable to bring out some fine playing, was the feature, even though the score board shows that the contest went to Dabney via the straight set route.

Dabney was at his best and the ability and attack he showed in the doubles yesterday was repeated today in conquering this Metropolitan expert in straight sets. Accuracy and sheer strength were notable factors. Mathey was favored for this match owing to his fund of tournament knowledge.

Figures, to a certain extent, show Dabney's game best, for in placements alone he was credited with 37 during the match while his opponent had but 14. In both of the first and second sets Dabney had 11 placements to his credit, and in the long and final struggle, which went to deuce, finally being won in 7-5, Dabney secured 15 points in this manner.

Mathey Was Bewildered.

Mathey seemed bewildered by Dabney's service. He was repeatedly netting the first ball in. Mathey seldom returned with noticeable speed, so that his opponent had an opportunity to rush into the net for a "kill of placement that netted numerous points.

In the final set Mathey showed his gameness when his opponent was within one point of victory by pulling the set up to deuce with the score against him of five games to four and forty love. Dabney was not to be denied, and by brilliant playing run out to the last two games, allowing his opponent one point and securing a service ace himself in each.

The point analysis of this match follows:

Dabney	4	5	4	3	4	5	4	5	39—9
Mathey	3	3	2	5	2	5	3	0	17—1
Dabney	7	2	1	4	4	1	4	4	4	4	29—9
Mathey	5	4	1	2	4	6	1	6	0	6	16—3
Dabney	1	1	5	4	4	2	5	2	6	4	4	7	47—7
Mathey	4	4	3	1	2	6	4	3	5	6	1	4	41—5

SUMMARY

Third round singles, Eastern championship: W. M. Johnson defeated Gardner Beals, 6—2, 6—4, 7—5.

A. S. Dabney defeated Dean Mathey, 8—1, 6—2, 7—5.

G. M. Church defeated M. C. Bangs, 8—1, 6—4, 6—3.

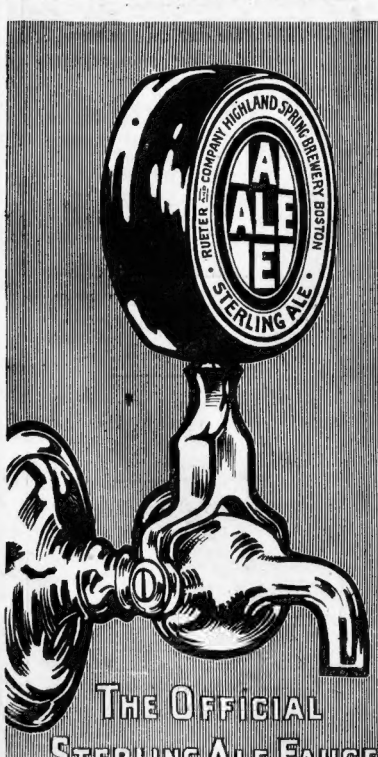
Harvard Golfer Sets Mark in Chicago Play

CHICAGO, July 23.—The field in the play for the Western golf championship has been reduced to sixteen. Champion Charles Evans, Jr., of the Edgewater Club, scored a marvelous 75 for a total of 151 in the second round, giving him the gold medal.

E. P. Allis of Milwaukee, Harvard's champion, made a record of holeing out in one stroke in the difficult first hole, 291 yards long. His feat gave him front rank among the visiting players with 157 for the two days' play, but he failed to last through the first match rounds, losing to J. S. Thompson of St. Paul in nineteen holes.



THE OFFICIAL STERLING ALE FAUCET

Just as the blue and white tap stands out from all the rest on your dealer's bar, so among all the beverages he draws there is no other like Sterling Ale.

Because Sterling is distinctive, because it is in a class by itself, it is given this Official Faucet of its own.

ON this market are many ales,—all pure, as food products ought to be. No man who makes things to eat or drink can show a cleaner score than the brewer. You may take for granted, as we do, the purity of any reputable brew.

Ales vary in grade, as they vary in price. Even when cost is not reckoned, they differ with the skill, or the knack, of the brewer.

Quality is the thing; for quality means purity, and satisfaction besides.

WE want you to know the quality in Sterling Ale. Into it in generous amount go the finest materials. No corners are cut in the brewing. It is not hurried to market, but fully matured. In body and flavor it stands alone.

Best of all,—during two generations of brewing nothing but ale, and ale only of the highest grade,—we have learned to brew ale that satisfies,—"Ale that is Ale."

It is to the interest of brewer, retailer and consumer alike that this fine ale shall be sold and bought and judged on its own merits. For just that square deal all around, the Official Faucet stands.

GOTHAM PLANS BIG ATHLETIC MEET IN AUGUST

By THOMAS J. HALPIN.

In connection with the New York Fair and Exposition, which will be held at the Empire City Race Track, New York, during the month of August, it is planned to have one of the greatest track meets that has yet been held in America. The meet will last three days and a night, the dates being August 21, 22 and 23. On the evening of the 22nd a Marathon race of the full distance, twenty-six miles and 385 yards, will take place. This will start at 6:30 p. m. and the Governor of New York state will furnish the trophy to the winning athlete.

The sports on the other days will consist of a full list of events. On Monday the following events will be held: 100-metre dash, 120-yard sign hurdles, one-mile run, putting 16-pound shot, running high jump, pole vault, discus throw and a tug-of-war, Olympic style, of four-men teams.

All of these events will have a limited handicap, but the distance allotted to the different men should not prove too much for the scratch man to overcome. The prevailing opinion, however, is that the New York handicapper will allow too much distance to a great many of the men, as this was been the practice in all past cases.

Marcel Thomas Put Out by Mike Glover

Brown Beats McGovern and Alberts Outclasses Moringo in Other Atlas Bouts.

By JACK CONWAY

THE favorites all breezed in winners at the all-star boxing show at the Atlas A. A. last night. Mike Glover won from Marcel Thomas in four rounds, Mickey Brown made the citizens of Malden happy by giving Philly McGovern a boxing lesson, while "Kid" Alberts amused himself by rocking Tony Moringo with right and left hand punches.

The bouts were hard fought and the show as a whole was one of the best that has been staged by the Atlas Club. It is to be regretted that more "fans" do not realize that all-star cards usually produce better boxing than the shows where two "world-beaters" are scheduled to appear in a championship or near-championship tussle.

Thomas proved no match for Mike Glover in the final bout of the evening. The French champion was outclassed by the South Boston welterweight and Referee Jack Sheehan stopped the uneven contest in the fourth session, when Thomas was on the very verge of being pounded into transportation to dreamland.

FOUGHT RUSHING BATTLE.

THE French champion's boring in tactics failed to worry Glover. In the third round Mike riddled his opponent with short rights and lefts and sent him to the canvas twice. Thomas did not know enough to remain on the mat for the count of nine, but foolishly jumped to his feet each time that he was knocked down. As a result he was easy for Glover.

Thomas was in poor condition when he left his corner at the opening of the fourth and started to "cover up" and hold in the clinches. Glover forced the fighting and would have knocked out Thomas if Sheehan had not halted the festivities.

EASY WIN FOR BROWN.

MICKEY BROWN put up a grand battle against Philly McGovern. McGovern is an aggressive, two-handed fighter, while Brown is a clever, elusive boxer and a fine ring general. Mickey's footwork enabled him to evade Billy's wild rushes, while he scored repeatedly with a left-hand punch to the jaw and stomach. In the second round Brown landed a hard right-hand punch on McGovern's jaw and the Brooklyn fighter went to the mat, but was on his feet in a second fighting like a demon.

Brown was given encouragement throughout the "go" by a large squad of rooters from Malden. Brown is seeking a date with Jimmy Walsh. We consider Mickey a sterling little performer but hardly place him in the same class with Walsh. It takes a champion or near-champion to make Jimmy extend himself.

ALBERTS DEFEATS MORINGO.

TONY MORINGO put up a game fight against "Kid" Alberts, but never had a chance of winning. Alberts was not at his best, but nevertheless had a good lead at the end of the tenth chapter. Moringo was on the receiving end of many well-directed punches and was badly battered up. He declared after the bout that he broke one of his hands in the sixth round.

Sudhoff Insane from "Bean Ball" Injury

ST. LOUIS, July 23.—"Wee Willie" Sudhoff, one time star pitcher of the St. Louis Browns, is reported insane in the City Hospital.

Physicians who examined Sudhoff today said his condition was due to some old injury to the head, and baseball men asserted "Wee Willie" was one more added to the list of "bean ball" victims, recalling that he was hit on the head with a pitched ball in 1905.

Sudhoff, who is thirty-eight years old, was in his prime as a pitcher in 1902.

Coombs May Be Back by Labor Day Game

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—John W. Coombs, one of the star pitchers of the Philadelphia Athletics, in a letter predicted that he would be in condition to go into the game by Labor Day. Coombs is on his farm at West Kennebunk, Me., convalescing after being ill since the opening of the American League season.

"I am more than encouraged over the way I have gained," Coombs wrote, "and only hope I may be able to help the boys bring another world pennant to Philadelphia."

Boston Oarsman May Meet Champ. Barry

Efforts are being made to give Frank B. Greer, the Boston oarsman, the necessary financial backing to meet wealthy champion Ernest Barry in a race for the world's title. William Haines, coach of the Union Boat Club, believes that Greer has a good chance against Barry.

LITTLE LOST SISTER By Virginia Brooks

A Story of the Author's Own Experiences in Chicago's Underworld

What Has Gone Before

The opening chapters of Virginia Brooks' striking story of the underworld, "Little Lost Sister," contain the author's explanation of methods employed by white slavers of the System to entrap young girls in cities and country towns everywhere.

One chapter is devoted to the "Cafe Sinister," which is a girl-trap, and another to the "Segregated Home." The Bexelwaum Ball is described, "Queer Fish in the Depths," "The Scarlet Wedding Dress," "Annie's Husband," "I Hunt a Job on the Stage," "Gray Wolf and Love Pirate," "Carmen of the Torpedo Cafe," "The Trail of Watchful Johnny," "Is the Levee Closed?" "A Brand from the Burning," and "The Tragedy of Marie Colise" and "What Happened to Lizzie Martin."

CHAPTER XIX.

Women Must Win This Fight

MY object in writing these chapters has been to impress my readers with the magnitude of the work to be done if there is to be any effective reform and to rouse them from a lethargic viewpoint too generally accepted that the devil is never so black as he is painted.

The fact is that I have been deterred through the inevitable difficulties that beset the user of plain language in public print from stating facts as plainly as they should be stated to penetrate the inner consciousness of the complacent American public.

But it is to the credit of the Hearst newspapers that the story as I have written it in view of necessary limitations has been printed without alteration or condensation.

Certain conditions that have been made plain in my narrative of underworld adventure must needs shriek in the ears of all good men and women for immediate reform. It is not to be believed that the people of Chicago will be content to submit very much longer to the presence of a band of prowling wolves, tolerated by courts and protected by rascally lawyers, whose acknowledged trade is the destruction of feminine virtue and whose whole activity is directed to the exploitation of Little Lost Sisters.

It is unbelievable that mothers and fathers will continue to tolerate a police system which admits its futility and corruptness when it cannot lodge in jail such widely known scoundrels as "Ike the Kike" and hundreds of lesser satellites who operate year in and year out against every principle of human decency and virtue.

Call to Mothers and Fathers

It is too much to suppose that these same mothers and fathers will continue to sit supine while municipally licensed hells like the Blossom's dance hall are allowed to harbor scores of well-dressed, smooth-tongued scoundrels whose sole occupation is the betrayal of innocent girls for profit.

Surely the people of Chicago are too intelligent to be much longer lulled into the half sleep of fancied security by pretended activities on the part of the police; by false assurances that the levee is closed; by prosecutions of such individuals as have in some way incurred the displeasure of the System.

It is easy to find out to what extent a closing order issued to the levee houses really closes, provided one doesn't announce his impending visit with such brass band flourishes as characterized the recent descent upon certain resorts by the Illinois Vice Commission.

Let the man who has daughters to protect take his wife out some night and look over these places for himself. It will not hurt the wife and it may do her a great deal of good. Any woman who is responsible for the protection of young daughters ought to know what sorts of horrors are prepared for them in case they are not forewarned of "Watchful Johnny" and his devilous arts. A woman who has once looked over the field for herself is likely to be more careful thereafter with regard to the companionships of her girls.

Training School for Vice

It is a hard thing to say, but there are few mothers in Chicago who really know their daughters and even fewer fathers who know their sons. We all like to theorize and emotionalize over the beautiful sentiment of the idea that American mothers are their daughters' confidantes—that the American son is the chum of his father. The facts are contrariwise.

How many mothers in Chicago know who the young men are with whom their daughters spend evenings away from home? How many fathers ever concern themselves at all as to the associations formed by their sons?

As long as mothers permit this loose sort of family life to continue—and it is becoming looser every day—so long will there be the troop of Little Lost Sisters tripping stumbling down the trail that leads hellward. If ever there was a time when the girl in the family needed for her protection every resource of motherhood that time is the present. There never was a time in the world's history when vice was so highly specialized. The System, with its octopus-like arms, is in need of thousands of girls annually. It recruits them from all classes of society.

And speaking of fathers—there are not many, I think, among the million in this city who make any effort to direct the pleasures or associations of their sons. In thousands of instances the sons of families that have every resource of wealth and culture are mere hounds of the pave—their principal recreation being the pursuit of young girls.

These young men hunt openly and foolish people smile, saying that "boys will be boys," etc. But the modern boy of eighteen or twenty is a highly sophisticated animal and a dangerous one, provided that he has lacked in his home and school teaching any instruction in the principles of decent living.

Training School for Vice

Take the poolrooms and such resorts of the outlying sections, where young men and boys congregate in thousands every day and night. They are training schools of vice, the headquarters of all sorts of criminal enterprises.

From these places are engineered such expeditions as that which revealed Bandit Webb and his cohorts. From these resorts the plans of "Watchful Johnny" are put into execution. From these holes in the moral fabric of the town operate hundreds of crooked chauffeurs—modern dry land pirates indeed.

We must divide the responsibility for the family as it ought to be divided. It is no more true that the mother should be sole conservator of the family morals than that there should be two standards of sex morality. With some show of justice the father might plead business and inability to work twenty-four hours in the day, but in this age our obligations are greater than they used to be twenty years ago, just as our rewards are greater.

No man's business is so important that he can afford to let his daughter drift into evil associations or his son become a criminal drug fiend, because, forsooth, the ticker keeps up so perpetual a clicking. Better tear out the ticker entirely and farm garden truck on a ten-acre patch outside of town with a happy, well-protected family than reap a ticker fortune that cannot buy back the purity of Little Lost Sister nor restore the moral fibre of a diseased and drunken son.

Many Americans realize too late that in their scramble for wealth they have overlooked the real happiness and contentment of life which has all the time been accessible. A million dollars will not repair the wreckage of a neglected family.

In this hurry-up age we are too prone to neglect the shadow for the substance—to grasp at a mirage while paying too little attention to the ground that is under foot.

The Children of Neglect

When I told you of poor little Florence dying out there in the back room of a South side tenement with only her childhood pet, the fox terrier, Gyp, to watch over her in an awful death, it was a true story. Florence is only one, though. There are hundreds like her in Chicago at this moment. They are the children of neglect—not only family neglect, but municipal neglect, State neglect, yes, of governmental neglect.

For the running down and eradication of commercialized vice must be, as it is now in fact becoming, a governmental duty. The Federal government's activities in that direction have already been more effective than all the dubious works of municipalities for fifty years, and the government has only awakened to a sense of its responsibilities within the last few years. There would be more joy in heaven over the capture and lifelong incarceration of "Ike the Kike" than over any other thing that could happen in this backward community.

A chorus of angels would sing with joy over the destruction of such charnel houses as the Cafe Sinister, the Blossom's dance hall, the Torpedo Cafe, The Cave, and the police protected saloon back rooms with their overhead hells.

We have many excellent women's clubs engaged in many excellent works, but there is the one great woman's job to be done which will demand all the resources of all the women's clubs, all the church organizations, all the sociologists, and lay preachers of this talkative decade.

Work for National Reform

That big job is the eradication of the evil in its commercial aspect at least. As long as the clubs and other organizations act separately and discuss separately and resolve separately there will be no effective reform. What is needed is a tremendous wave of feminine public opinion that shall sweep this country from end to end and force the hands of government officials to protect American womanhood before any less important matters are taken up. Before we rage over minor grievances of the sex let us redress this great grievance. We can do it by a nation-wide campaign of women's organizations combined into one tremendous force. Let us make it a bigger thing than a presidential campaign, bigger than a war with Japan, bigger than anything that was ever known in the way of a woman's movement before in the world.

This is the one country in the world where such a great, unified movement is at present practicable. The campaign for women's suffrage and its marvelous success by ordinary peaceful methods in the United States are sufficient indication of the results that could be achieved with all women throughout the country united upon an object that could find no single opponent among the good women of the land.

I believe that as long as the police powers of cities are in political hands it will be idle to expect a cessation of grafting, the granting of privilege for political reasons or the corrupt mishandling of municipal government.

The radical way to clean up Chicago would be to clean out the whole police force from top to bottom, root and branch, to make civil service rule absolute.

It is pretty certain that as long as there is a vestige of the old police system left—one single root of the cancerous growth remaining—it will be impossible to depend on an absolutely clean and honest police administration.

Demand of Young People

Here is another aspect:

A legitimate good time is what young people want. Because they can't get it they get into all kinds of trouble and misfortune. Wholesome recreation is the most important feature to provide in reclamation work. It is so important that a city should undertake to supply it.

There are not enough recreation centres to keep children out of alleys. The city should provide parks that will accommodate children. Recreation centres should be supplied by the municipality, not left to commercialized interests.

In the vice districts we find victims of the maladjustment of society. Society is responsible for these victims. When a family of seven is herded into two rooms it is not to be wondered at the girl living in these conditions becomes depraved.

Is it to be wondered that a mother who is obliged to cook in a windowless kitchen becomes so nervous and irritable that she continually scolds? Is it any wonder that the children leave home? Is not society, with its inadequate housing laws, mostly to blame?

The system of fining offenders makes it necessary for these women to continue living immoral lives in order to pay fines. The law defeats its own purpose. Every offender should be sentenced to the House of Correction and given industrial training after examination as to mental condition has determined the possibilities of reform.

This would keep decreasing the number of women who make their living by evil methods. If the sixty per cent. of such women said by statistics to be mentally deficient were taken out of the ranks, sent into farm institutions and treated scientifically there would follow a rapid improvement in the situation that now appalls society.

Pruritis a Severe Form of Eczema

A Method of Home Treatment that is Very Effective.

There is probably no other remedy so well known as S. S. S. for the blood. And it is remarkably effective in that form of skin disease known as Pruritis, or intense itching. The action of S. S. S. is specific. It contains one ingredient, the active purpose of which is to stimulate the tissues to the healthy selection of its own essential nutriment. And the special elements of this matchless blood purifier are just as essential to well-balanced health as the nutritious elements of the meats, grains, fats and sugars of our daily food. These facts are brought out in a highly interesting book on skin diseases, compiled by the medical department of the Swift Specific Co., 154 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. It is mailed free, together with a special letter of advice, to all who are struggling with a blood disease.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. to-day of your druggist. It will surprise you with its wonderful action in the blood.

Don't accept something offered you that is "just as good." The only reason why anyone should not try to sell you S. S. S. is the large profit made on something cheaper from crude drugs. Beware of any attempt to persuade you to buy something in place of S. S. S.

Grafton, Ind.
"Gentlemen: About September 10, 1908, my mother-in-law was taken sick with a severe cold. Pneumonia, which developed into Lung Trouble. In January, when Rev. Wm. Berg of St. Michael's Church at Schererville, Ind., prepared for her death, he recommended that I use Eckman's Alterative, and see if it would not give her some relief. The attending physician declared she had Consumption and was beyond all medical aid. So I purchased and Rev. Wm. Berg to send her a bottle. Practically without hope for a recovery, I started that day to the Altenville, which saw the first I am glad to say that she now began to improve. Yes, she works as hard as ever, weighs twenty pounds heavier than she ever did before she took sick, and is in good health."

PROVERB CONTEST AN EDUCATOR

GLANCE AT THE LIST OF CASH PRIZES

TODAY'S PICTURE

This Is Picture No. 38

A good many competitors in the American's Puzzle Picture contest regard it as a splendid educating influence. This, in itself, is a compliment that is far beyond any praise of the prizes offered.

The number of new entrants daily joining the army that is marching steadily on toward the goal of 155 prizes is evidence of the popularity of the contest. It is also evidence that the late comers have faith in their ability to catch up with those who entered when the first puzzle picture appeared more than five weeks ago. There is every reason why the faith of these late comers should be justified.

The pictures are not difficult to solve. Some are harder than others, but the average cannot be said to be extraordinarily difficult. Of course, if they were so easy that one glance would supply the correct solution, there would be no use in having a contest.

Each picture requires a little study. There is always something in every one that will give a clew to the correct answer. It depends on the acumen of the solver whether he or she can find that clew.

These pictures have never appeared in any contest conducted by this paper. The guide, which holds solutions to all the pictures, contains more than three thousand proverbs never before used by this paper.

This guide has been called by the contestants the greatest help they could have. It is a treasure house of useful information, and its pages hold correct solutions to every picture that has been or will be used in the contest.

The possessor of a guide has to look through the book to find which proverb fits the picture he is trying to solve; if he looks long enough and carefully enough, he will be sure to find it. No wonder the guide is considered an invaluable aid.

Moreover, every proverb is officially correct: it is worded just as the judges will expect it to be worded. Try to remember some proverb offhand—the chances are that you will get the sense of the saying but will misquote some word. There has to be a standard, and the guide furnishes not only the solutions, but the solutions correctly worded.

All of which is of immense assistance to the contestant.

We are mighty glad to see that so many new entrants have decided to try for the magnificent cash prizes to be awarded to the winners.

Keep these prizes before you in your mind's eye, as well as in black and white, and you will find them a great stimulant in your race for the goal.

Good luck to the late comers; they are showing the right spirit. It is to be hoped that others will take their cue from them and get into the contest NOW.

The guide may be had for twenty-five cents, or five cents more if sent by mail. The pictures you have missed will be sent to you at once, upon request, at the regular rates of the American, that is, one cent for each daily picture and five cents extra for each Sunday picture. There will be no extra charge for postage.

The Temper Curse

By DOROTHY DIX

By DOROTHY DIX

THE test problems of life are not the big problems, nor are its trag edies the great sorrows of existence. The conundrums that nobody can answer are offered by just little everyday complications, and the things that break our hearts, and wreck homes, are not great sins, or afflictions, but small, miserable, sordid worries and aggravations that blot out the sunshine and take all the joy out of life for us.

As an example of this I submit the case of one of my correspondents. She is a good, conscientious woman, married to a good man, and they have had a happy home. Recently, however, the woman's mother has died and she had to offer the shelter of her home to a young sister, a beautiful and talented girl of twenty, who has the temper of a virago.

The girl has nowhere else to go, for although she is amply fitted by her abilities to support herself, and can keep no situation because of her uncontrolled temper and tongue. To have to support her is a burden on her sister, but the worst feature of it is that the girl has made a peaceful and happy home such a storm center that it is wrecking it, and the woman's husband is very naturally threatening to send the sister away.

FEARS THE WORST

The poor wife and sister is between two fires. She fears the worst for her sister if the girl, young and beautiful and headstrong, is deprived of all guardianship and restraint, and even of shelter, and at the same time she feels the insanities of sacrificing her husband and her home to the girl's tantrums, and she asks what she had best do under the circumstances.

I side with the husband. I think that there is nothing else in the world in which the sense of us show ourselves so cowardly as in the craven, unchristian way in which we give into people with tempers and let them ride roughshod over us. Before a redoubled temper and a venomous tongue we are all errant cowards, and that is why the possessors of tempers don't try to control them.

Among my acquaintances there is a certain child who holds the world's championship for crying. She shrieks and shrieks until she maddens everybody about her. Not long ago, catching her for once in a smiling mood, I said, "Mabel, why do you cry so much?" She looked at me in round-eyed amazement and calmly replied, "Wuz if I didn't cry, how would I get anything I want?"

That is the philosophy of the individuals with high tempers. They know that the balance of us are too concerned at the thought of their raging that we will give him what he wants as an argument; that we will walk on eggs to try to keep from ruffling their sensibilities, and that we will put up with any injustice or imposition rather than go through a scene with them.

SO THEY RAGE

Therefore they rage. It's the easiest way to get what they want, for the person without a temper is no more fitted to cope with the individual with a temper than an infant in arms is to engage in a prize fight with Jack Johnson.

Every one of us knows some great, bold, strong, splendid man who is so afraid of his wife's temper that he lies to her about having to see some man down town if he wants to stay out a few minutes longer than the curfew she rings on him, and who doesn't dare to even treat an old woman friend with common civility if he meets her when wife is along.

All of us know women who live in such terror of their husband's temper that they tremble at the very sound of his keys in the front door, and who spend their lives in falsifying household accounts, and trying to conceal everything that happens in the household that could possibly vex their violent spouses.

Ordinarily these men and women are not cowards. They have the courage to lead a charge in battle or face death without a tremor. They even have the moral courage to endure their hell on earth of being married to a high tempered wife or husband, yet before that temper they become abject worms of the dust, without a fight in them.

So far as I know, no psychologist has ever attempted to explain the fear we have of the tempers of those we love as we must live. Perhaps the struggle for existence takes so much out of us that we have no strength left with which to wage a perpetual battle at home. Perhaps we have a sense of decency that the high tempered lack that which keeps us from retaliating in kind. Perhaps no real lady or gentleman is fitted to deal with the woman or man who has not the finer instincts that consideration for other people and self mastery gives.

At any rate the fact remains that we all do stand in such shaking, quivering fear of the high tempered that we encourage them in giving full reign to their evil dispositions. This makes us to a degree accessory before the crime. We need more grit and backbone in dealing with them, and it's dollars to doughnuts that if the evil tempered knew that they would be chucked out of house and home unless they controlled themselves they would curb their passions.

Temper should be made the first cause for divorce.

If every woman was perfectly aware that she would have to be polite and amiable in order to hold down her job, and have a husband to pay her RENT for her instead of having to hustle to support herself, there would be no more shrewish wives, nor men who had their failure every time they thought of what their wives would say to them when they got home.

If every man knew that he would have to answer to a divorce summons and pay alimony if he didn't make himself pleasant and agreeable at home, we would have no more domestic bullies and tyrants who talk to their wives as they would not dare speak to any husky man who could knock them out.

And if all of our sisters, and our cousins, and our aunts, and our mothers-in-law, who come and live on us, and who keep on dodging their ways, and trying to keep from precipitating an avalanche of fury and abuse on our heartstrings, were perfectly sure that they would either have to be good-natured or get out, we should see such a sweeping up of disputatious as the world has never known.

For the person with the temper is never anything but a selfish bully. We could call his, or her bluff, if we had the nerve to do it.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

LET YOUR MOTHER DECIDE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am in love with a young man with whom I have been keeping company for quite some time. We have broken off friendship for a while, and my mother strongly objects to his return. I love him. Can you tell me what is best to do?

H. V. E.

MOTHER always knows best, particularly when the girl is very young, which I am judging is your case.

If he is worthy of you he will wait. Believe me, my dear, if he is the man set aside to be your mate he will not be easily discouraged.

IN ALL PROBABILITY, YES

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

A certain girl friend of mine recently wrote me a letter asking a favor of me. I could easily oblige her as the favor is slight. I have been keeping company with a friend of hers lately and am decidedly in love with her. She (the one who wrote the letter) knows this, but will be-stows her attentions on me. I myself am not paying her much attention and do not like her. Do you think I would arouse the jealousy of my lover if I showed the other friend this favor just to be polite. M. S.

YOUR letter is rather ambiguous, as you do not state the nature of the favor.

If of such a nature it would cause trouble between you and your sweetheart, you must refuse. Your first thought should be of her.

And please see to it that the other girl's attentions are bestowed elsewhere. I am afraid she will make trouble.

LET YOUR MOTHER KNOW

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am sixteen and deeply in love with a man eleven years my senior. He often asked me to go to a show, but I refused. Do you think I will lose his affection by not accepting his invitation? N. Y. K.

IF he cares for you in the right way, his love is not so easily lost. You do not say why you are refusing his attentions.

RESINOL CURED ITCHING ECZEMA

Years of Suffering—Immediate Relief

Cleveland, O. June 2, 1913.—"About eight years ago my hands would get very red—then little blisters would come with pus in them. They would itch and burn so that I could not sleep at all. I used everything people told me about, and all kinds of blood treatments, but they did me no good. I wore out dozens of pairs of rubber gloves, using them when working in water, and still the eczema stayed.

"About three years ago I read about Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment, and at once bought some at the drug store. They gave me immediate relief, and after using two jars of Resinol Ointment and a cake of Resinol Soap, I can honestly say that my hands are cured. It has been three years already, since I am cured, and the eczema has not returned. I really can't say enough about Resinol." (Signed) Mrs. Chas. P. Winchester, 2204 Carroll Ave.

Better proof, even than such a letter, is to try Resinol yourself and see how quickly the trouble disappears. Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap are sold by all druggists. Free trial: Dept. 7-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

Fashions of the Moment

A Charming Summer Gown Fully Described by Olivette

By Olivette

HERE is a little Summer costume that may be truly called a "confection," though we generally prefer not to use that gastronomic term in the description of even the dreams of the sartorial realm.

White or shell pink is the foundation of heavy grade china or shantung silk. There is an eight-inch slit over the left ankle, and all about the hem tiny pink wild roses are set at equal intervals. The overskirt is of wide shadow lace falling to the knees at the front and lengthening some eight inches under the caught-in drapery at the back. A garland of the roses peeks from under this, and another surmounts the wide girdle and rises to meet the square-cut vest of filmy white chiffon. Both waist and puff sleeves are of the lace, and another garland of the dear little wild roses nestles under the sleeve at the elbow.

The hat is a great round white Neapolitan covered with frill after frill of white accordion plaited maline, with a monster pink rose crushing in all the filminess at the left.

Dainty white slippers and silk stockings, and a filmy parasol with a wide border of chiffon printed in great pink roses, complete an absolutely ideal Summer costume.

Do You Know That—

A prominent West Country farmer, attending the opening of a new co-operative milk depot at Bath, England, declared that he had not drunk a glass of milk for twenty years before attending that gathering, when he had one for the novelty of the thing, and was delighted with the taste.

The Magic of Motor Boating, and Its Educational Possibilities

By GARRETT P. SERVISS.

I HAVE fallen in love with motor boating, and yet I was never but once in a motor boat. It is the romance of the thing that takes me. It appeals to the imagination. It makes you feel adventurous.

You can appreciate better the joys of Captain Cook and the other early navigators when you have explored a coast, or a crooked river, or a chain of lakes, with their islands, in a motor boat. As you cruise away a feeling of independence comes to you, and the world looks different—bigger, more interesting, more mysterious. You have got out of the old world. You see things that nobody sees on land, for your point of view is changed. You are as free as Ponce de Leon searching for gold and magic fountains among the emerald tropics.

For the first time you learn what a wind is. People on land do not know the wind. There it is a hot, dusty, malicious demon of the air, but on the water it is a spirit from the infinite and is free, like yourself. It becomes companionable. You are prepared for its freaks, and you can enjoy them, as it sings in your ears and freshens your breath. A sea breeze is manageable; you can make it serve your ends and increase your enjoyment; but what can anybody do with a wind that comes savage as an umbrella or drive a windmill? As a cooling agent the electric fan surpasses it.

LIKE ROBINSON CRUSOE

The preparations for a motor boat cruise interest me as those for a voyage in an East Indiaman used to do. I read about them in the Motor Boating Magazine for July as eagerly as I once read about ships taking in their stores for a trip around the Horn. There you have the essentials of human existence brought familiarly under your eyes, and you feel like Robinson Crusoe looking over his stores before embarking for an exploration around his island. You are going to cut yourself loose from the workaday world, with all its banal subdivisions of labor and occupation, and its human cogs that are good for nothing except when fixed on the circumference of a wheel, and only fit one little place there, and you are going to be THE WHOLE THING. You are going to know and do everything yourself.

You will be captain and crew, carpenter and quartermaster, navigator and engineer, with the world before you, and the means to meet all its demands right under your own hand, to be used by you on your own voyage of discovery and adventure. You may even feel tempted to take along a supply of glass beads and other trinkets to dazzle the eyes of the natives.

Motor boating is cheap—not necessarily so, but if you want to make it so. You can even build your own boat. There are plenty of printed directions to guide you, and I am sure, from my own observations, that no young fellow ever constructed one of these magical vessels without discovering in himself possibilities of intelligent application that have been of inestimable value to him in his later life.

THE SECRETS

Without weariness, without straining his attention to hold it steady, but with the utmost pleasure and eagerness, and with the exultant feeling of a new discoverer, the motor boatman learns the secrets of ship-making, navigation, the management of machinery, the mechanical application of electricity, and a thousand things that would always have remained mysteries to him if he had confined his vacation enjoyment to the land.

I doubt a young man who, simply from the study and management of his motor boat, has acquired a knowledge of electric terms and electric machinery that is coarse in a technical school could hardly have given him.

The sea is the mother of life on this planet, and her wisest children are those who know her most familiarly. And just now, when the land is sweltering under the July sun, is the time of times for making acquaintance with this romantic, health-giving, knowledge-inspiring form of Summer recreation, which is an education as well as an amusement.

Up-to-Date Jokes

A school teacher who was giving a lesson on "food" was interrupted by one of his pupils.

"Please, sir," he said, "Jimmy says he knew a baby that was brought up on elephant's milk, and it gained ten pounds in weight every day."

"Jimmy ought not to tell you such rubbish," said the teacher. "Whose baby was it that was brought up on elephant's milk?"

"Please, sir," answered Jimmy, "it was the elephant's."

A farmer took out a policy of fire insurance on his barn. After a loss and one penny, the company came to settle or adjust the loss, but took advantage of its option under the contract to build a new barn.

Subsequently a life insurance company sought to have him insure his life in favor of his wife.

"Oh, no," he said, "you don't catch me a second time. If I'd die, you would come around here and offer to get a new husband for her."

Important Evidence.

A short time ago a large factory, fitted with the most modern appliances, including electric light, caught fire, and despite the most strenuous efforts of the fire brigade, was almost demolished.

The following morning a newly appointed member of the police force (who had been transferred from a remote village), was dispatched to the spot, with a view of ascertaining how the fire originated.

After closely interrogating the manager of the factory, he asked to see the man who was responsible for the electric light.

The manager stated that the electric switches were under his sole control.

Policeman: "Then you are the man that lights up the electric affair?"

Manager: "That is so."

Policeman (bubbling over with excitement): "Now, be careful how you answer my next question, 'cos if it ain't satisfactory it will be took as evidence against ye. When you lighted the electric light last night, where did you throw the match?"

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

PA got up this morning feeling lots better than he feels sum mornings, he was as brite & happy as a little boy. Sum mornings after he has went to lodge, etc., he looks like a old sum & he acts like a old woman, but this morning he was very nice.

This is a fine Summer morning, dearest, he said to Ma when he sat down to the table. How gritty you look this morning!

Ma did look gritty, but she looked surprised, too, at the nourishings Pa is so busy looking to the glass to see how he looks that he dount have time to look at Ma or very much.

Thank you, dearest, for them kind words which sets me you did say, said Ma. I am glad you still luv me with the asim steadfast adoosion with made us our years of companyunship so brite.

I feel as fine this morning, Pa sed, tho' if I had to die now it would seem terriburl. Of course, sed Pa, I was

CASSIDY HITS AT 'JOKERS' IN ALCOHOL LAW

You remember the hue and cry that went through the land seven years ago when Congress passed a law permitting the manufacture, sale and use of tax-free denatured alcohol? It was going to accomplish wonders.

Mr. Cassidy tells you today where the joker comes in.

By HARRY P. CASSIDY.

Seven years ago we were told that denatured alcohol was going to revolutionize country life by producing cheap fuel. The farmers were going to be able to make it from potatoes, waste grains, fruits or cull stock from various crops. Denatured alcohol was going to light the farmers' homes, cook the meals, furnish power to churn the butter, pump the water and even take the place of gasoline for the motor car.

Meanwhile the motor car burns gasoline. The home is heated by coal. The churn is run by steam power or electricity and the old kitchen stove does most of the cooking.

In other words denatured alcohol has been allowed to die the death of the neglected and everything goes on as before. Except the price of gasoline. That keeps going up.

Senator Harry Lane of Oregon shows it is practically impossible under the law to make denatured alcohol at a price to compete with gasoline. The regulation says no industrial alcohol plant shall manufacture more than 100 gallons a day.

At the same time it prescribes an elaborate system of inspection by government revenue officials. This is so costly to the distiller that it becomes impossible to manufacture industrial alcohol at a cost which can approach the price of petroleum products.

Again, the farmer who would distill his own denatured alcohol must distill a product with a strength of not less than 90 per cent. alcohol.

Any farmer, for a few dollars, can make alcohol of 50 to 60 per cent. with a still of his own making. But the law says it must be of 90 per cent. strength. Here's a joker within a joker.

Think of the thousands of dollars lost to the farmers of New England yearly through the waste of nonmarketable fruits. These fruits and other crops which go to waste would make industrial alcohol. Potatoes were so low in some parts of the country last year it didn't pay to dig them.

The price of alcohol must be brought down. But the present monopoly that controls oil and petroleum products, likes the law as drawn, denatured alcohol as it now stands and works out.

STOCK MARKET AND LATEST FINANCIAL NEWS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor.

Prices weakened in stock markets this morning, the opening range being downward and sentiment less confident. The strike at the Lake had a rather depressing effect locally. Coppers were lower. At the end of the first hour Inter Coln. 3s, Hecla was down 7, Tamarack 1, Wolverine and Mohawk each 2, Isle Royale 1½, Osceola 1⅝, Superior 1 in, and Shattuck Arizona 1¼, while a number of other mining issues had declined fractionally.

New Haven was among the most active issues and receded 1⅝.

Most of the market leaders were lower in New York. By the end of the first hour Canadian Pacific was off 1¼, New Haven 1½, Lehigh Valley 1, Southern Pacific ⅝, Reading ⅛, Steel ⅛, American Can ⅝ and Amalgamated ⅝. Union Pacific was up ⅛, however.

War Situation is More Delicate.

According to cables the Balkan war situation is more delicate, and at once more of a menace to the peace of Europe. It has been that way for so long that at times stock traders have become rather callous. This morning it had a restrictive influence upon European markets. If they were comparatively firm, they were also dull. There was a disposition to wait developments and not to go far in the way of commitments. Business on the other side in securities is again very professional.

An alarming report from Constantinople is that Turkey is going to formally declare war against Bulgaria and undo all that was accomplished at the peace conference in London. Russia, it is reported, has offered to intervene to prevent permanent occupation of Adrianople by Turks and to force them to respect the treaty of London. If Russia should intervene Austria might move to checkmate her, and the long-feared general European conflict get a start.

Wants Income Exemption Raised.

When the House framed an income tax to raise enough revenue to provide for any deficiency occasioned by reducing the tariff it excepted all incomes under $4,000, but the Senate, which is now the radical branch of Congress, lowered the exemption figure to $3,000. It also cut the tariff enough more than the House had done to make it necessary to raise more money from the people by direct taxation.

Senator Borah is one of the Senators who agrees with the House. He thinks a $4,000 limit is better than one set at $3,000. He said in his speech on the tariff: "Under this income tax provision there will be no relief for those who ought to have relief. Less than 2 per cent. of the American people have incomes above $4,000. The income tax bonds should fall upon these wealthier citizens, rather than upon the poorer man already paying a heavy tax through tariff and internal revenue channels.

"The time must come in this country when we can no longer tax expenditure and extravagances of the country upon the property of the nation. Those vast fortunes have got to take care of the extravagances."

More than seven-eighths of the net gains of the government still would be collected through indirect taxes, the Senator added, even with the new income tax in operation.

Want More Radical Currency Bill.

The administration currency bill which the House committee is now trying to get into shape to report is not radical enough to suit some Democrats from the South who are among the framers. They are preparing amendments to the measure which, if adopted, would make it practically a new bill.

Representative Wingo of Arkansas wants a voluntary insurance of deposits by national banks.

Representative Eagle of Texas wants a provision that the government must pay depositors as soon as national banks fail, which in effect would be a government guarantee of deposits.

The radicals are in a minority on the committee, however, as has been shown several times. The last demonstration was when the committee rejected a proposition to amend the redeposit section of the Glass-Owen bill so as to include with acceptable commercial paper cotton warehouse receipts.

Financial News in Brief.

In the first six months of this year Rosublic Iron and Steel earned on common stocks at the rate of 8 per cent. Its best showing since 1907. The earnings on common amounted to $1,972,421. This was something of a heavy losses because of the Spring flood.

The New Haven road will spend about $1,000,000 to equip all its locomotives with a superheater device. The work will be done at the Readville shops.

When E. N. Brown, who recently resigned as president of the National Railways of Mexico, arrived at Havana he would not say anything about the political situation in Mexico. It was inferred from that the situation is very grave.

The New York American says considering the successor of Charles S. Mellen as president of the New Haven road: "There are many people in Wall Street who believe that in the end Theodore N. Vail will be the choice of the directors."

Steel men in Pittsburgh say that they expect a buying movement in September. There is also better sentiment in iron circles.

It is said that John D. Rockefeller has just invested about $2,000,000 in long term bonds.

The New York sub-treasury gained $166,000 from the banks yesterday, making the cash net gain $3,397,000 since Friday.

Free Baseball Tickets for You, Fans! Root for Red Sox! Root for Braves!

If you hold one of the numbered baseball checks which the AMERICAN has distributed broadcast, it would be well for you to closely scan the sport pages of the AMERICAN'S Sporting Extra Edition today, tomorrow and every day until further notice.

Every one of the small checks which have been, and are being distributed, is numbered. The AMERICAN prints, each day, in the Sporting Extra Edition duplicate numbers. All you have to do is to compare the number printed on it with the list of numbers printed in the Sporting Extra Edition each day and, when a duplicate of the number you hold appears in the AMERICAN, it entitles you to a free ticket to any one of the Red Sox or Pilgrims' games—take your choice. It costs you nothing.

"Standing room only" is the watchword at Fenway Park, and at the Walpole street grounds these days, but holders of AMERICAN numbered checks do not have to stand up, as the tickets now being issued entitle the holders to a grandstand seat at any game and at any time during the season of 1913.

Remember, all you have to do is to watch the daily list in the Sporting Extra Edition of the AMERICAN, and when a duplicate of the number you hold appears, bring or send same to the AMERICAN Promotion Department, No. 5 Winthrop square, and you will receive a free ticket to any one of the Red Sox or Braves' games on the home grounds.

IF YOU haven't yet obtained any of these checks, ask your newsdealer or newsboy, who will be glad to supply you.

Checks may also be obtained at AMERICAN Promotion Department.

Watch your numbers carefully. If your number does not appear today it may tomorrow. When it does, it means a free Red Sox or Pilgrim ticket for you.

Life Costs More---AND LABOR MUST LIVE

Business Men Must Make Their Plans Based Upon Necessary, Inevitable, JUST and Steady Increases of Pay

Copyright, 1913, by the Star Company.

Following is an extract from a telegram sent from San Francisco by W. R. Hearst to the manager of his editorial department. The message is recommended to business men generally:

"I believe that the railroad men and all laboring men must positively get repeated increases in wages in order to enable them to maintain even their present standard of living, and that they should properly, in the development of our civilization, obtain an even higher standard of living. Business men must count upon increasing wages as one of the inevitable conditions of modern life, and must make their plans and form their enterprises accordingly. "HEARST."

The opinion expressed in the above dispatch is that OF A MAN WHO PAYS OUT MILLIONS A YEAR IN WAGES, AND THE HIGHEST WAGES.

A man who pays millions annually in wages, and has constantly increased wages throughout his business career, has a right to be heard by employers as well as by workers.

In Congress, when Mr. Hearst appeared to argue in favor of the Eight-Hour law against manufacturers who opposed it, Mr. Hearst pointed out the fact that his opinion concerning the eight-hour day was not theory, but positive knowledge, inasmuch as he himself employed men on the eight-hour day basis, had done so for years, intended to do so permanently, AND HAD MADE HIS BUSINESS PAY IN SPITE OF THAT HANDICAP, if it were a handicap.

Successful business men in the United States should give careful and open-minded attention to Mr. Hearst's telegram, which is a message from one business man to others, from one considerable employer of labor to other employers of labor.

It is not a hardship for the intelligent business man to pay good wages and work his men fair hours, IF OTHER BUSINESS MEN DO THE SAME.

The great thing is that business men shall have an understanding, that they shall realize that they and the workers are actually partners in national welfare, AND THAT THEY SHALL FIGHT AGAINST THE MEAN, NARROW AND HARMFUL MAN WHO REFUSES TO DO THE JUST AND HONORABLE THING.

If a thousand men employ a million workers in a certain line of effort, and if they all pay their men well and give them reasonable hours, THAT IS FAIR FOR EVERY EMPLOYER.

The trouble with our system is that the hard-hearted, narrow-minded, close-fisted man, who goes off by himself, shunning organization, refusing co-operation, and competing upon a basis of the lowest wages and the longest hours, has been allowed to enjoy his prosperity and his thrift through meanness without question.

Let the employers work on an even, just basis as to wages and hours, and then THE BEST MAN WILL WIN—the business man will win who has the best ideas, the highest intelligence and is able to render the greatest public service.

All that the good business man asks, all that the fair employer wants, is justice and the opportunity to compete for business success and prosperity on an even basis with other men of his own class.

The salvation and prosperity of this country, menaced now by half-baked ideas of half-baked Democrats at Washington, have been based very largely upon the fact that the United States through the tariff has been protected from the unfair competition of the unfair foreign employer and ill-treated foreign labor.

American business men, thanks to the tariff, have had to compete ONLY WITH AMERICAN BUSINESS MEN.

The man who has made iron in this country, and who paid his puddlers as much as $8 a day and more, has not had to worry about the man in Belgium who was paying for the same labor less than one-quarter.

The man manufacturing goods in this country has manufactured in competition with AMERICAN employers, and need not keep his mind upon the problem of meeting the competition of some Chinese manufacturer able to get labor for five cents a day.

American industry has grown—American prosperity has grown, American wages have grown—AND THE COST OF LIVING, INCLUDING FARMERS' PROFITS, ALSO HAS GROWN, because over here we have kept our markets to ourselves, and competition has been among men living, working, manufacturing and competing on the same terms.

What will happen if Democrats who believe that they know all about business, manufactures and industry, BECAUSE THEY HAVE NEVER HAD ANYTHING TO DO WITH THOSE THINGS, are to have their way, if the tariff wall is to be torn down suddenly and the competition of the meanest foreign employers and the lowest paid foreign labor is to be met is another story.

Fortunately, one election is followed by another election. It will not be difficult for workers and employers combined to have their way AT ANOTHER ELECTION and correct the threatening follies of this Administration.

The main thing is that those now working in this country, whether they work with their hands, as laborers and mechanics, or with their brains, as employers, should co-operate on a friendly basis, through the making of laws, for the establishment of minimum wage rates, especially as regards women, and in other sane, friendly and legal ways for the bettering of conditions.

It is time to get away from the days of strikes, of dynamite, of Homestead shootings by paid Pinkerton thugs, or Los Angeles explosions by degraded, depraved misrepresentatives of labor.

It is important that those who employ labor should recognize the truth of Mr. Hearst's statement in the above telegram, "that railroad men and all laboring men must positively get repeated increases in wages in order to enable them to maintain even their present standard of living, and that they should properly, in the development of our civilization, obtain an even higher standard of living."

The workingman today gets not twice, but three times, four times and five times what he got when this country was young.

McMaster, the historian, writes of a day when there was JUST ONE MECHANIC IN THE UNITED STATES ABLE TO MAKE A DOLLAR A DAY ALL THE YEAR ROUND.

One President of the United States, a well-meaning man, was filled with gloom and thought the country was going to the dogs because when he spoke you could no longer hire a first-class man in this country for less than fifty cents a day.

If you had told an employer of those old days, even a George Washington, a Thomas Jefferson, or any other first-class old American, that one day in this country unskilled labor would demand and get two dollars a day and skilled mechanics three dollars, four dollars, five dollars a day and more, those old Americans would have said, "Well, the country must go to the dogs; the thing is impossible."

When you say today that wages, high as they seem to some, must be increased, and ought to be increased, the man of today, if he be shortsighted, will tell you that it is impossible, and that the country must go to the dogs.

BUT IT IS NOT IMPOSSIBLE, AND THE COUNTRY NEED NOT GO TO THE DOGS.

The American employer of today is better off, being richer, bigger in his enterprises, safer in his undertakings, than his predecessor who used to be able to hire a first-class man for fifty cents a day.

The men that own the street railways and pay $2.50 per day are better off than they were in the days when they got their labor for $1.00 or $1.10.

After all, what is the chief asset of the employer? Is it not the competent, well-fed worker?

And far above the interest of the individual employer, what is the chief asset of the nation? Is it not a population of well-fed men, well paid, with time to rest, time for mental improvement, money enough to keep their children out of the mills and mines, and in school?

Not with hatred, bitterness and regret, but with pleasure as good citizens, the competent American business men, united, with laws to protect them, fighting the unfair competition of low wages and long hours, should gladly recognize that the purpose of a republic is not merely to make a few rich and protect them in their wealth, but to make the entire population happy, contented and prosperous.

Very gladly the employers of intelligence and power must, as Mr. Hearst says, "count upon increasing wages as one of the inevitable conditions of modern life, and make their plans and form their enterprises accordingly."

The employer should be reasonable and just.

And the workers should be reasonable, honest and fair.

We ought to be able to get away from an industrial system of fighting, hatred, battle and strikes.

The worker should be content to give a fair and full day's work for a fair day's wages and fair hours of work.

We should get away from these days when the employer does his best to get the most that he can out of the workman, and give him the least possible; and when the worker's thought and that of his leader is to get the most he can out of the employer and give the least possible.

Workers and employers should treat each other justly, combining as associates, friends and brothers, and GIVE TO THIS NATION AND TO THE FUTURE THE BEST POSSIBLE PRODUCT OF THEIR COMBINED BRAINS AND MUSCLE, ORGANIZED AND APPLIED IN SUCH A WAY AS NOT TO INTERFERE WITH THE HEALTH, THE HAPPINESS, THE MENTAL GROWTH OF THE PRESENT GENERATION, OR THE WELFARE OF THE GENERATIONS TO COME.

One Woman's Story

By VIRGINIA TERHUNE VAN DE WATER

CHAPTER VIII.

PRIDE and an instinctive stoicism kept Mary Danforth's pale face impassive as she listened to her father's agitated announcement. An iron hand seemed to be gripping her throat and stifling her. She steadied herself and faced her parents as she drew away from her father's encircling arm. He still held the paper in his trembling hand. Beside him was his wife, aghast and silent, her thin fingers nervously twisting the handkerchief she held.

The girl spoke quietly and steadily.

"Mr. Craig may not have been hurt, you know," she reminded her father. "The first reports of accidents are often exaggerated."

She turned away and went down the hall to her own room, closing her door behind her. She took off her hat and put it away, then lifted the books from her dressing table, on which she had just laid them, and arranged them on her desk. All these actions she performed with care, yet she moved as in a dream. She stood, looking about her as if searching for some other duty to perform, but, finding nothing, suddenly flung herself on her bed and lay there, silent, staring wide-eyed into the gathering dusk.

At the end of a half hour her mother knocked timidly at the door.

"May I come in, Mary?" she asked in a low tone. "Are you asleep?"

The girl drew herself to a sitting posture on the edge of her bed.

"Come in, mother," she said, dully. "No, I haven't been asleep. I was just lying down and—thinking."

The parent laid a cool hand on her daughter's forehead.

"Poor little girl!" she murmured. "Poor little girl! I know this news was a terrible shock to you."

Mary stirred irritably under her mother's touch. "Of course, it was always terrible to hear of accidents of that kind." She paused, then steeled herself to utter what she would not acknowledge was a deliberate falsehood. "But I have been thinking that it might have been much worse. Suppose there had been on that train someone whom we really cared for."

Mrs. Danforth looked in silence at the speaker; then, bending over, kissed her and left the room. Mary sat for a moment longer motionless on the side of her bed. Then she bowed her face upon her hands and closed her eyes.

Dinner that night was a dismal affair. The gloom of the accident oppressed all minds. Mr. Danforth was nervous and talked of nothing but the wreck, inveighing against the carelessness of the railroad officials, the indifference corporations showed for human life, and explaining how the disaster might have been avoided—dwelling on the subject until Mary felt as if she could bear it no longer.

When the meal was at last over, Mary, remarking briefly that she must go back to her studying, went to her own room again. Her parents remained at the table, chatting, while the man of the house smoke his post-prandial cigar.

"I am glad that Mary doesn't take this news any more deeply to heart," remarked the father with masculine obtuseness. "I was afraid that she was beginning to think too much of Craig and that if he was hurt or killed it must break her all up."

His wife shook her head with the scorn that a woman always shows for a man's lack of perception.

"She feels it more than she knows herself," she remarked enigmatically.

"Bosh!" exclaimed Mr. Danforth. "Mary isn't the kind to keep such a trouble as that to herself. Of course she liked the chap—and she is distressed to think that he may have been injured, or—worse. But you told me yesterday that you fancied she was beginning to care a good deal for him. She wouldn't be so calm if she did. She regards him only as a pleasant acquaintance."

In her own room Mary bent over her books and tried to study. She attacked the preparation for tomorrow's recitations with a determination to banish all other matters from her mind. "Anything to keep from thinking," she whispered to herself. "This suspense is awful—but it may be better than to know the truth." A lump of ice seemed to be pressing upon her heart, but she worked on.

It was late when she extinguished her light, yet dawn was graying her windowpanes before she fell into a troubled slumber.

Her eyes were heavy when she dragged herself into the dining room that morning. Her father was opening the morning paper which lay beside his plate. With a sickening constriction of her throat the girl watched him scan the first page of the sheet. Suddenly he started to his feet.

"Hear this!" he exclaimed, excitedly. "'Texan Hero of Railroad Wreck. Gordon Craig Rescues Three Women from Burning Pullman; Is Himself Unhurt!'"

Mrs. Danforth uttered a low cry of alarm, and at the sound the reader dropped his paper and sprang forward. Mary had slipped quietly from her chair to the floor. She had fainted.

The parents' eyes met in a significant look as they both bent over the prostrate girl.

"I told you so!" said the mother gravely.

THE SECRET OF PRAYER

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

For he who climbs to make his prayer
Meets half way the descending grace.
—Elsa Barker in British Review.

THIS is the secret of all prayers
That in God's sight have worth;
They must be uttered from the stairs
That wind away from earth.
And he who mounts to speak the word,
He shall be heard, he shall be heard.

And he who will not leave himself,
But stays down with his cares
(Or with his thoughts of power and pelf),
Though loud and loud his prayers,
Beyond earth's dome of arching skies
They shall not rise, they shall not rise.

Oh ye, who seek for strength and power,
Seek first some quiet spot,
And fashion, though a silent hour,
Your stairway, thought by thought.
Then climb, and pray to God on high.
He shall reply, He shall reply.
